EXPLANATION

The genealogical Chart at the beginning is followed by the Notes, serially arranged according to the numerals in parentheses following each name on the Chart, which thus serves as Table of Contents.

The main purpose of the compiler is to preserve the information he has gathered concerning the Founders of the families mentioned and their descendants no longer living.

After the notes, is given a partial list of the Names and Addresses of the living descendants of the Founders. With each name is mentioned the number on the Chart of the Founder or Founders from whom descended. For many such names the full details of descent during the last hundred years are not given, but blank pages have been left at the end on which each person may write the connecting information, thus closing the gap. The compiler would like to have a copy of such supplements, for a possible second edition.

There are five persons named as "Founders," to-wit:

Joseph Raphael
Abraham Isaacks
Samson Mears
Asher Michael de Paul
Joseph Stegg

In the Notes, each of these has a Founders' Number above his name and on the right the serial number in the Notes as follows:

1.
2.
Abraham Isaacks (15)
3.
Samson Mears (19)
4.
Asher Michael de Paul (23)
5.
Joseph Stegg (31)

Abbreviations: The letter "P" in references refers to "Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society," of New York.

JOSEPH RAPHAEL (1)

MENTIONED as the father of Abraham Alexander, Sr., in the latter's manuscript Prayer Book for the High Holy Days, written by his own hand, according to the custom of the Sephardim, the words being: "Abraham Alexander, of Charleston, South Carolina, son of Rabbi Joseph Raphael—the memory of the Righteous is a blessing." Second, in the Coming Street Cemetery, Charleston, South Carolina, on the grave stone of his son, Judah Alexander, (1742-1804) "a native of London." Third, on the grave stone of his son, Abraham Alexander (1743-1816), in the same cemetery.

In December 1932, the writer purchased from Hugo Helbing, of Munich, Germany, a manuscript treatise in Hebrew, dated 1719, on the Schechita, or ritual killing of animals, written by "Joseph Raphael of Orviedo," a sopher or scrivener. The identity of name and the fact that Abraham Alexander, Sr. was himself a distinguished scrivener of Hebrew suggested that his father and the author of the manuscript might be the same person. This manuscript is now in possession of the writer.

ABRAHAM ALEXANDER, SENIOR (2)

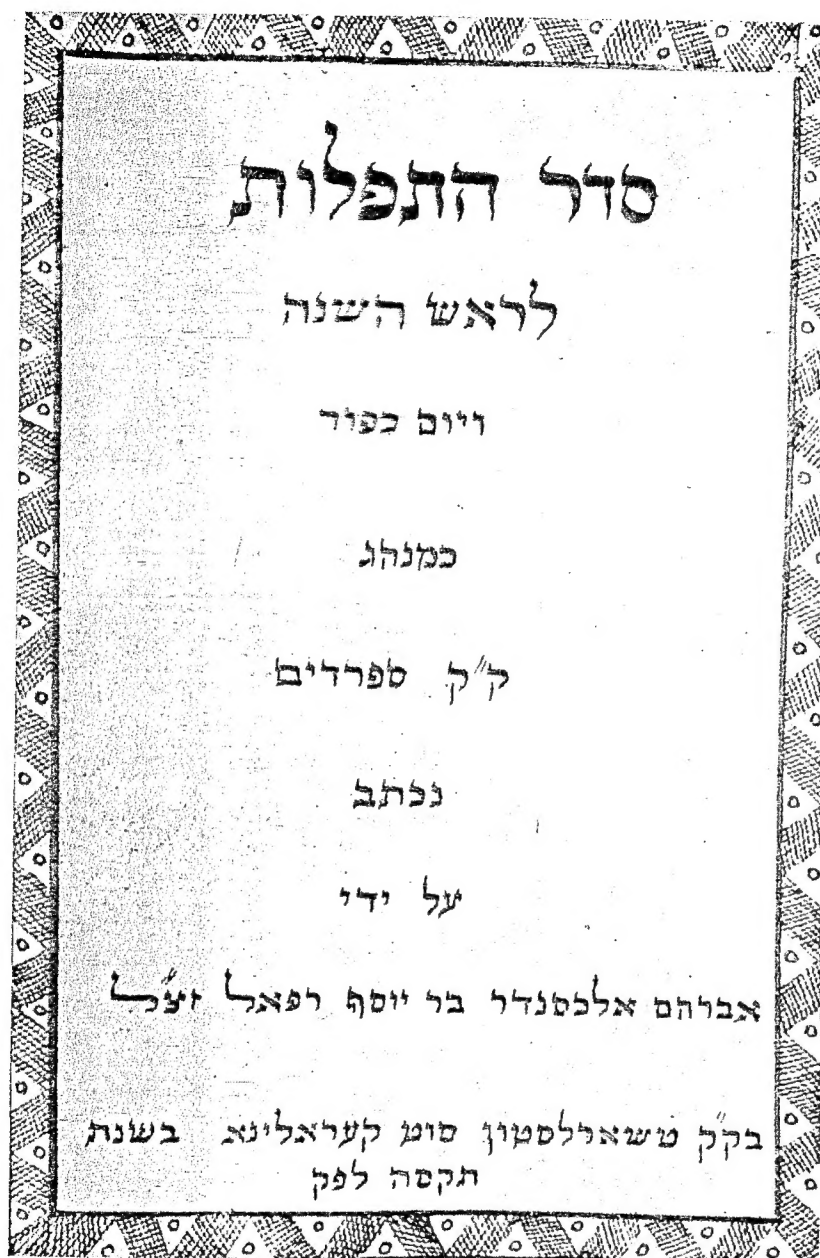

SON OF Joseph Raphael; his mother's name not known.
Born in London, England, 1743. Came to Charleston, S. C. about 1760. Scrivener and Hebrew Scholar. For about twenty years, was Minister of the Congregation Beth Elohim (House of God) of Charleston from 1764 to 1784 without remuneration, for which service his name is mentioned annually in that Congregation in the seventh escaba (prayer in memory of the dead) on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. Constitution of 1820, Rule XX, reading as follows: "The seventh escaba shall be made for Mr. Abraham Alexander, Sen., deceased, who volunteered his services to perform Divine Services."

In "The South Carolina Gazette and Public Advertiser" of July 3, 1784, is the following marriage notice:

"Last Wednesday was married in the 16th year of her age, at her mother's house near the negroes' burying ground in this city, by Rabbi Abraham Alexander, Miss Rachel de la Motta, a native of St. Croix, to Mr. Abraham De Pass, of Jamaica—two persons in whom wit, beauty and good nature, never shined more conspicuous."

Abraham Alexander's name appears in "Heads of Families. First Census of the United States of 1790 for the State of South Carolina," as being the head of a family living in Charleston District, St. Phillips and St. Michael's Parish, page 41.

After the Revolution, he entered the service of the new Government of the United States in the Custom House at Charleston, where he held the office of Auditor from about 1802 to 1813. Directories of Charleston, South Carolina: Negrin's 1802; Hrabowski's 1809; Folker's 1813.

Family tradition is that he was Collector of the Port of Charleston at the time of his death; was accorded a public funeral with flags of the shipping in the harbor and of the U. S. Custom House at half mast.

His first wife was an Englishwoman—inferred from the fact that his only son, Abraham Alexander, Jr., was born in London.

His second wife was a widow, Mrs. Ann Sarah Huguenin Irby, a Protestant Huguenot by birth, who became a devout Jewess. There were no children by this second marriage. See: Account of Ann Sarah Alexander.

He died February 21, 1816, aged seventy-three years, and was buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston. His grave-

The name Alexander has been used by Jews since the year of Alexander of Macedon's conquest of Judea and entry into Jerusalem (332 B.C.), when because of his favorable treatment, it was decided that all males born that year should be given the name Alexander. Shemita. It frequently appears as a Jewish name at the beginning of the Christian era: Mark 15, 21; Acts 4, 6; 19, 33; I Tim. 1, 20; II Tim. 4, 14, Josephus, Antiquities of the Jews, and among the names of Hasmonean kings.

ANN SARAH HUGUENIN ALEXANDER (3)

SECOND WIFE of Abraham Alexander, Sr., whom she married on Monday, 14th day of Tebeth 5545 (December 26, 1784). This fact is shown by the Ketuba (certificate of marriage), a copy of which is in the writer's possession made from the original, which was the property of Mrs. Henry Mosler, (born Kate Magnus) of Cincinnati, Ohio, also a descendant. The contracting parties are described as "Alexander son of Joseph" and the widow, Sarah, "daughter of Abraham."

She was born Ann Sarah Huguenin. She was married to a Mr. Irby and was his widow at the time of her marriage to Abraham Alexander, Sr.

This marriage was the culmination of an acquaintance begun during his military service as an officer in the Revolutionary War. The account came to the writer through his great aunts, Miss Catherine Alexander, Mrs. Rebecca Alexander Magnus and Mrs. Rachel Alexander Cohen, whom he knew as a boy. After her husband's death in 1816, she lived in Charleston with her step-son, Abraham Alexander, Jr., and his family for a period of nineteen years until her death in 1835. During this period of 19 years, she was dwelling in the same house with her step-grandchildren, the children of Abraham Alexander, Jr. Among them were Rachel, Catherine and Rebecca. Rachel Alexander Cohen was born December 8, 1817 and died November 22, 1888, and was, therefore, 18 years of age when her step-grandmother died. Catherine Alexander was born in 1820 and died in 1885 and was therefore 15 years of age when her step-grandmother died. Rebecca Alexander Magnus was born May 27, 1823 and died April 22, 1892, and was, therefore, 12 years of age when her step-grandmother died—all being of sufficient age to have remembered the statements of their step-grandmother, who had lived during and seen the Revolution.

Mrs. Rebecca Alexander Magnus was herself not unfamiliar with war, her husband, Saul Magnus, having been killed in the battle of Resaca in 1864. The son of her sister, Henrietta Alexander, Alexander Marcus Hilziem was mortally wounded in the battle of Kennesaw Mountain in 1864. Another sister, Eleanor Alexander Goldsmith, had two sons killed in the Atlanta campaign in 1864, Michael Myers Goldsmith and Isaac Goldsmith.

Ann Sarah Alexander was strictly observant of Jewish law and custom and was said to have been the most pious member, according to family report. Despite the request in her will for burial in the Jewish cemetery in Charleston, the tradition is, it was denied by the authorities of the Synagogue because of some alleged omission or defect in the ceremony of conversion. The writer has made unsuccessful efforts to locate her grave in Charleston. She was deeply attached to her step-grandchildren and was a potent influence in their lives.

She died in 1835. Her will, which was probated on December 15, 1835 and recorded in book H at pages 173-174, Record of Wills Charleston County, S. C., reads as follows:

ABRAHAM ALEXANDER, JUNIOR (4)

BORN IN London, England, 1771. Married August 26, 1801 to Hannah Aaron van Blitz, daughter of Levy Aaron van Blitz of Black Mingo, S. C. and granddaughter of Emanuel Aaron van Blitz of Haarlem, Netherlands. Naturalized September 4, 1798 as an American citizen in the Federal District Court of South Carolina by Judge Thomas Bee. Died in Charleston, S. C. December 19, 1844, and buried by the side of his wife in Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston. His horizontal gravestone inscription is as follows:

His children were:

Frances, married Joseph Joseph of Georgetown.
Henrietta, married (1) William Nauman, (2) Marcus Hilziem.
Sarah
Eleanor, married Moses Goldsmith of Charleston.
Rachel, married Joseph Cohen of Rome, Georgia.
Catherine
Rebecca, married Saul Magnus.
Aaron married Sarah Moses of Charleston.
Alexander, married out of the Faith.
Judah, married out of the Faith.

He was a hardware merchant in Charleston. An account of him, given the writer by Mr. Solomon S. Solomons of Charleston, described him as being fond of English literature. He used to read in his store during business hours, and showed so much annoyance and irritation when interrupted by customers that it nearly broke up his business. His daguerreotype shows him of typical British appearance, strong and sullen.

On November 1, 1815, Abraham Alexander entered into a business partnership with Israel Solomons of Georgetown, S. C. for a period of five years, and which was continued by mutual agreement until November 1, 1822, a period of seven years. At the time Abraham Alexander was living in Charleston and Israel Solomons in Georgetown. The former furnished the merchandise and the latter contributed his full time and attention. The two men were cousins through relations in Holland. A copy of the original articles of partnership, witnessed by T. F. Gue, is in the possession of the writer. The writer also has in his possession letters to his wife, Mrs. Hannah Alexander in Charleston written in Georgetown. The first dated May 20, 1818 and sent by hand of Mr. Abm. Isaacs, and the second, dated May 22, 1822. His residence, of which the writer owns a painting, was in St. Philips Street and his place of business on the west side of King Street, two doors north of Mary Street. Directory for Neck, 1881, Charleston, by Morris Goldsmith.

Throughout his life he was an active member of the Congregation Beth Elohim and of the Hebrew Orphan Society of Charleston.

AARON ALEXANDER (5)

ELDEST SON of Abraham Alexander, Jr., was born in Charleston, S. C., March 7, 1812, died in Atlanta, Georgia, June 1, 1876 and was buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston, S. C. He was married to Sarah Moses, daughter of Isaiah and Rebecca Moses on October 5, 1836, in Charleston, S. C. They had nine children, only three of whom lived beyond infancy. Those who survived were Joseph Albert, Jacob Clarence and Julius Mortimer.

Shortly after his marriage, Aaron Alexander moved to Vicksburg, Miss., where he lived a short time. From Vicksburg he moved to Athens, Georgia, where he was in the drug business for several years, and where his children, Julius Mortimer, Cecilia and Henry Eugene were born. About 1847, he made his first journey to Atlanta and in 1848 moved his family there. He lived first on Whitehall Street on the East side between Hunter and Mitchell Streets. He was in the drug business in Atlanta. He next moved this business to Philadelphia, Pa. His business there failed and he was imprisoned for debt in Moyamensing Prison in Philadelphia. His wife, Sarah, with their three children promptly moved into the prison with him and there remained until he finally succeeded in securing his release. He then moved back to Georgia, settling in Columbus where the family lived during the Civil War. From Columbus he moved back to Atlanta, where he died in 1876 at the age of 64, one of the wealthier men of the city. "Moyamensing!" is the private battle cry of the Alexander clan.

was about 1500. In 1954, it is estimated at 740,000.

In the United States Census of 1850, DeKalb County, Georgia (information as of June 1, 1850) Aaron Alexander and his family are listed as follows:

Name	Age	Sex	Occupation	Place of birth
Alexander, Aaron	37	M	Engineer	S. C.
Alexander, Sarah	33	F		S. C.
Alexander, J. A.	13	M		S. C.

Aaron Alexander was not an engineer by education, but, like numbers of pioneer leaders of Atlanta, first established himself in the service of the railroads, the vital factor of the city.

In 1849 he erected his home on the east side of Peachtree Street at number 163, between Cain and Harris. The lot was 100' x 400' running back to Ivy Street. He built two dwellings on the Ivy Street frontage. One of these was rented for a number of years to Asa G. Candler. He sold his home when he moved to Philadelphia and re-bought it when he returned. It was pierced by shells in the bombardment of Atlanta during the Civil War. It was occupied by members of the family until 1849, when Julius M. Alexander, the last occupant of the family, moved to the home he had built at 49 Forrest Avenue.

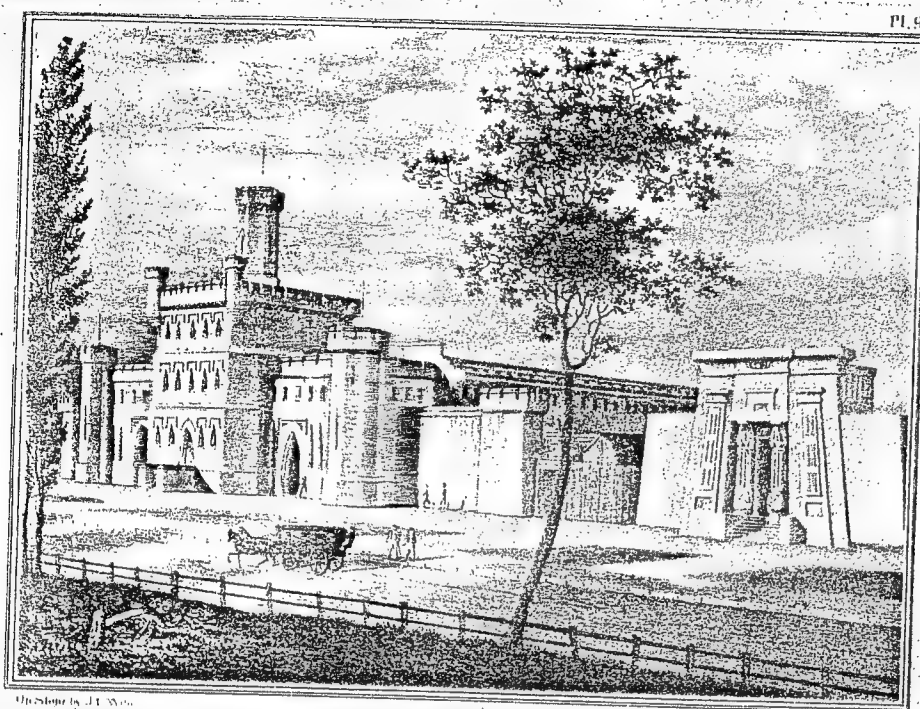

"Civil War" is used because of the way the Alexanders felt about General John B. (Ramrod) Gordon, who used the term in the title of his "Reminiscences of the Civil War." "Ramrod" referred to the way he sat on his horse in battle.

The lot on Peachtree Street was bought from William Ezzard, Administrator of Alston H. Green, the sale being completed June 29, 1850. Consideration $150.00. When he left Atlanta for Philadelphia, he sold to Dr. J. P. Logan, June 4, 1859. Deed Book D, page 13, DeKalb County Records. Consideration $4,100.00. When he returned to Georgia, Dr. Logan conveyed the place to A. J. Brady as trustee for Mrs. Sarah Alexander. The deed dated September 29, 1862 is recorded in Deed Book G, page 323, DeKalb County Records. In 1909, this lot was sold by Julius M. Alexander and the heirs of Joseph A. Alexander for $70,000.00. Now occupied by the Norris Building.

He was the owner at one time of a part of the City Hall site at the Northwest corner of Forsyth and Marietta Streets, conveying it in 1873 to Chamberlin, Boynton & Co. He also owned the Northwest

C. M. Hopkin's map of the City of Atlanta in 1878 gives the names of his neighbors: In the same block were Fleming, Hancock, C. A. Larendon, W. R. Hill, John A. Stevens, Mrs. Curry and Mrs. White. In the square across the street were Mrs. W. Peck, Er Lawshe, N. J. Hammond, H. Inman, C. H. Strong, J. Goldsmith.

In the square to the North were Judge Logan E. Bleckley, Peter Lynch, R. C. Mitchell, N. R. Fowler, H. D. Doherty and Mrs. White. Russell C. Mitchell, who had fought under Gen. John B. Gordon, was the father of Eugene M. and Gordon F. Mitchell and the grandfather of Stephen and Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind." In the square across Peachtree to the Northwest were Mrs. Duncan, Senator Benjamin H. Hill, James R. Wyly and F. P. Rice. In the square diagonally across Peachtree to the southwest was the Governor's Mansion.

When Aaron Alexander came to Atlanta the second time, he was heavily in debt through his failure in Philadelphia. Through the forbearance of his creditors and Sheriff J. D. Perkerson of Fulton County, and his own energy and courage, he succeeded finally in paying all the judgments against him, which today are marked "satisfied" on the Execution Dockets of the county. He was a partner in the immediately successful hardware business of his two sons, Julius M. and Jacob Clarence ("Cooch") Alexander, established in 1865, which interest he bequeathed to his wife. He was also one of the founders of the Atlanta Mining & Rolling Mill, incorporated March 9, 1866. The incorporators were: John D. Grant, Allen Kennedy, Aaron Alexander, and Wm. C. Gray. Authorized capital stock $200,000.00 to $500,000.00. It was an extensive plant on Marietta Street engaged in the manufacture and reconditioning of railroad rails. See: E. Y. Clarke's History of Atlanta (1877), in which appears a wood cut of the plant on page 107.

Aaron Alexander was a Whig and opposed secession and so remained throughout the Civil War, being strongly pro-Union. Nevertheless when Georgia was invaded, he sent his sons into the Confederate Army and charged them to do their duty.

The following letter was written to Mrs. Aaron Alexander (Sarah Moses) in Columbus, Georgia, three days before Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and ten days before the battle fought at the river bridge in Columbus in which his son Julius M. Alexander participated:

"My dear Wife:

I sent you a message by Capt. Stapler from Tallahassee as I could not procure paper to write, he no doubt has given all information about me as I requested him to call and see you in person.

"It is mere chance my having this paper. Mr. Epping is with us bound on a similar mission, and he kindly furnished me, after we had perambulated this beautiful place calling on every store for writing material without being able to procure any.

"Please report him to his family as being quite well. I am glad to have him as a traveling companion, particularly as we will pass the time together, and if unsuccessful return home in company. A trip down Chattahoochee is always monotonous, it was rendered more so on this occasion by detention, we were delayed all night at Eufaula by the boat breaking a portion of her wheel.

"I took advantage of the time we remained to visit the families of my Brothers, they were glad to see me and were both at the landing awaiting my arrival.

"I suppose Cooch (Jacob Clarence Alexander) mentioned he met our boat, as he fell on getting aboard her. I felt uneasy he had hurt himself, until Mrs. Dessau informed me he had upon regaining the Mist waved his hand and laughed at his mishap. I really felt like returning until she gave me that assurance.

"It seems delays attended us at every step for after being detained on the River, we were two days at Tallahassee, even we had to get permits from the Confederate authorities to pass our pickets. To obtain great boon, I had to make a contract with the agent of the Confd Govt to bring in supplies for the use of the Govt which is to be paid for in cotton at 1/3c the price for it in New York with a permit for its exportation. I have so far managed satisfactorily and, if it were not for these delays would have reason to be satisfied with the progress of things, as if I am admitted by the Yankies everything can be arranged satisfactorily and we leave here on Monday for Baldwin which is forty miles from here to go to Jacksonville by flag of truce as ordered by Gen'l Irvin through his adjutant it remains to be seen whether we will be admitted, if not I will leave for home in double quick if I can. I can't say when I will be back, but be assured, as early as possible as home has great charms for me, for it is there I find you my dear Companion for near thirty years and in your society and that of our children I find charm no other place can furnish, do not be uneasy about me, as the route to be taken is perfectly secure & we are guarded going out and coming back as a flag of truce accompanies us both ways.

"I saw Francis and Prince (former servants of the family) at Chattahoochee. They are both dissatisfied, the former said he would remain only a month, as he did not wish to have no other business to do than to clean mules, and he was not permitted to drive, he had not been out of the town, which is about one hundred yards in extent, the white man monopolized the driving and received all the pay. From the way the man spoke, I concluded the teams and wagons were his bona fide property—his name is Bright. you will report this to Ezra (Ezra Moses, brother-in-law), and add that I think he will be lucky if his mules are not impressed, as the Govt have supplies on some River in the state and they can only be hauled away by wagon and I do not see how they can be obtained except by impressment, give him this information as a caution—he can govern himself accordingly.

"I have heard all the disastrous news about the fall of Richmond, burning of Selma, etc. If I am only successful all will be well with us, therefore I am prepared to Brave all and Dare all. Something has to be done and I shall make the attempt. Keep up your spirits for the same good God who has hitherto protected us, will, I hope and believe, still extend His kindness to us in all our ways. If I did not regard it as a last hope, I would not leave home with all its endearments to travel in these wilds and submit to all sorts of privations, but, nothing venture, nothing have and my motto is and shall be 'Press onward.'

"I may be a long time before you hear from me as we leave here Monday morning, and if I get in, you know how difficult it is to send letters out, but I shall not let any opportunity pass without writing, but keep your spirits up as the result if successful is worth all the trouble.

"Tell Isaac (Isaac I. Moses, brother-in-law) I am as much determined as ever to go on. Say to him Capt. McAllister is here, and I expect will go out at Fernandina, or with us.

"Give my love to Rosa, to Jake, July, Theodore if at home and remember me kindly to the servants, and now commending you to the care of our heavenly Father I am as ever

Your devoted and afft husband,

"Mrs. Dessau is well and stands the trip like a heroine. Send a message to her family."

CONSTITUTION AND GUERRIÈRE *

Oft times it has been told How the match Till the Yank - ees did 'em catch - Oh, the Yank - ee boys for fight - ing are the dan - dy, oh!

The musical score consists of five staves of music in a single system. The key signature has one flat (B-flat), and the time signature is 2/4. The melody is written on a treble clef. The lyrics are printed below the notes, with hyphens indicating syllables that span across multiple notes. The final note of the fifth staff is a double bar line.

* Tune is from Joana Colcord's Roll and Go (Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merill Co.).

Though devoid of musical talent or knowledge, the Alexanders have always liked to sing, particularly in the bath tub. These notes would be incomplete without reference to certain pieces in their bath tub repertoire which have been handed down through generations:

"Constitution and Guerriere 1812," "Villikins and his Dinah," "Casta Diva," "Dio Spiegasti," and later: "Snagtooth Sal." The first of these is reproduced here:

Oft-times it has been told
How the British seamen bold
Could flog the tars of France
So neat and handy, oh!

And they never found their match
Till the Yankees did 'em catch—
Oh, the Yankee boys, for fighting
Are the dandy, oh!

The Guerriere, a frigate bold,
On the foamy ocean rolled,
Commanded by proud Dacres—
The grandee, oh!

With as choice a British crew
As a rammer ever drew—
They could flog the Frenchmen
Two to one, so handy, oh!

When the Constitution hove in view,
Says proud Dacres to his crew,
"Come, clear the ship for action,
And be handy, oh!

"To the weather gage now get her,
And to make our men fight better,
Give them to drink gunpowder,
Mixed with brandy, oh!"

The British shot flew hot
Which the Yankees answered not
Till they got within the distance
They called handy, oh,

Then the first broadside we poured
Carried their mainmast by the board—
Which made their lofty frigate
Look abandoned, oh!

Our second told so well
That their fore and mizzen fell,
Which downed the royal ensign
So handy, oh!

Then proud Dacres came on board
To deliver up his sword—
Loath was he to part with it,
'Twas so handy, oh!

"Oh, keep your sword," says Hull,
"If it only makes you dull,—
Come! cheer up, and let's have
A little brandy, oh!"

Then fill your glasses full
And we'll drink to Captain Hull,
And merrily we'll push about
The brandy, oh!

John Bull may toast his fill,
Let the world say what it will,
But the Yankee boys for fighting
Are the dandy, oh!

In the bitterness that followed the Civil War, Aaron Alexander, and his sons, like General Lee, General Gordon, Senator Hill, Henry W. Grady, and Joel Chandler Harris, hoped and worked for reconciliation.

Among the friendly overtures made by General George G. Meade of Gettysburg, commanding the Federal troops in Atlanta during Reconstruction was a series of band concerts which he tendered leading citizens. The crack band from the Federal Barracks in West End would march playing down Whitehall St. to Peachtree and out Peachtree to the residence of the citizen who was to be complimented and taking position in Peachtree Street in front would play for hours, rendering such pieces as the Atlantan complimented had selected, and interrupted at intervals by suitable refreshments for the band. This was told me by Fred Wedemeyer, deputy tax collector, whose father was the bandmaster, and who remembered tagging along as a boy and hearing a concert given in front of Aaron Alexander's residence at 163 Peachtree. There is little doubt in the writer's mind that on this occasion, among other pieces the Alexander bath tub repertoire was selected and rang out, superbly played, over Peachtree Street.

General Meade made other friendly moves, including direct assaults on the feminine hearts of Atlanta. He himself led the attack in person by attentions to a prominent Atlanta lady with whom he was often seen driving up and down Peachtree Street in an elegant victoria drawn by two magnificent horses. A score or more of young unmarried army officers recently graduated from West Point Military Academy, carefully instructed at the Point in how to dance and what to do in the presence of ladies, were ordered to do their duty. Atlanta was rocked to its very foundations when the news broke that Maggie Poole, a reigning belle and noted for her abhorrence of Yankees, was going to marry Major Wm. H. Smyth, commander of the provost guard.

Captain Frank O. Briggs, later U. S. Senator from New Jersey and president of the John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of Trenton, New Jersey was one of the young West Point officers in Atlanta under General Meade. Through these old associations, some 25 years later, the writer received from Senator Briggs one of his first important cases when he began the practice of law, a connection that continued until recently when the Roebling Company retired and sold out to the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

The following letter from Dr. A. K. Smith, a surgeon in one of the occupying regiments, later going west for the Indian troubles, was written to his friend of those days, Aaron Alexander:

Santa Fe, New Mexico
July 22d, 1873

My dear old Friend,

As I was sitting in my office today, listening to the everlasting chiming of the Cathedral bells in this holy city, and watching the jackass trains going by, I was accosted by a cuss by the name of Pessels whom perhaps you know, and it carried me back at once to Atlanta, and set me thinking about you all.

It took me some time to reach this place but we got through all right and safely and are well established now in our new station which I hope we will soon like, for we were somewhat blue and homesick at first. It don't come easy to leave a place where one has lived five years and feel at home again in a new set, most of whom don't speak a word of English. I don't think there is a pair of grindstones in the whole place or even an elm hub on which I could sit and watch the passers by.

I enclose a letter for Nathans. I forget his first name or I wouldn't trouble you. Will you please send it to him.

How are the boys? I send them my regards and hope the

A. Alexander, Esq.
Atlanta, Georgia

Aaron Alexander was very hospitable and fond of entertaining. One of his special friends was Judge O. A. Lochrane, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia, who had worked for him as a clerk in his drug store in Athens when he (Lochrane) a brilliant young Irishman, first immigrated to this country.

The following notice of his death appeared in the Atlanta Constitution: "Dr. Aaron Alexander, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Atlanta, died at his residence on Monday last. Dr. Alexander had no enemies. Everybody loved the kindly, affable old gentleman, who having lived a long and honorable life, at last fell asleep in the bosom of an affectionate family"

JULIUS MORTIMER ALEXANDER (6)

BORN IN Athens, Georgia, November 4, 1844, in a dwelling house on College Avenue facing west which stood near the center of the city on a lot adjoining the present office building of the Southern Mutual Insurance Company. Died May 1, 1917, in Atlanta, Ga., at his residence, 49 Forrest Avenue, which he had built in 1894, where he had since lived. Buried in the family plot in Oakland Cemetery in Atlanta, the plot given him by his mother in 1883. He came to Atlanta in 1848 when four years of age with his father, mother and brothers. Attended the private school of Prof. Alexander N. Wilson. Before the Civil War, he spent a few years as a boy in New York City living with his aunt, (Adeline Moses), Mrs. Adolph J. Brady, and worked in the hardware establishment of Schofield, Clark & Company of that city. During the first years of the Civil War he worked under enlistment in the Naval Iron Works established by the Confederate Government for manufacturing ordnance, at Columbus, Ga., where his father, Aaron Alexander, a Union sympathizer, lived. In November 1864, he enlisted as a private in Major Samuel J. Whitesides' Naval Iron Works Battalion, also known as "First Battalion of Infantry of Georgia State Guards," also as "Ordnance Battalion of Georgia Infantry," also as "Columbus Arsenal Battalion." He was promoted to Sergeant-Major of the battalion. Honorably discharged at Columbus, Ga., May 1865. Participated in heavy artillery engagements in the lines constructed on the northwest approaches to Savannah to resist the armies of Gen. W. T. Sherman in December 1864. The battalion, commanded by Colonel Leon von Zincken, was a part of the brigade of Brigadier-General John K. Jackson, who was under the command of Major General Ambrose R. Wright. (Siege of Savannah in December 1864 by Lieut. Col. Charles C. Jones, Jr., 113-14-15). He also distinguished himself as a member of the above battalion in the last land battle of the Civil War, fought at night April 16, 1865, at Chattahoochee River Bridge at Columbus resisting Gen. James H. Wilson's Cavalry, the site of which is marked by a bronze tablet.

In 1906, in securing a pension, as a Confederate soldier for a member of his command, James A. Gifford of Atlanta, Ga., Julius M. Alexander with Messrs. Christopher C. McGehee, W. H. Perrine, and J. A. Corbally prepared a short account of the Battalion reading as follows:

"The undersigned, former members of Naval Battalion, C.S.A., moved by the dire necessities of their aged comrade and fellow-citizen, James A. Gifford, as well as such other members of our former command as upon whom the heavy hand of poverty may be pressing, beg leave to acquaint you with the following facts relative to our former organization:

"It was engaged in the early sixties at Columbus, Ga., and duly mustered into the service of the Confederate States, thereby becoming subject to any order the Confederate authorities might give for its movement ashore or afloat. (See Vol. 28, Series I, p. 554, U. S. War Reports). It was, in the main, composed of artisans so skilled that the mechanical equipment of many of the Confederate vessels of war was alone made possible by their efforts, directed by the eminent Chief Engineer J. H. Warner, C. S. Navy. This technical ability of the Battalion was so well recognized, that it was only when the most dire necessity existed for its being ordered into field service were its energies diverted from the manufacture of cannon, the construction of gunboats and the manufacture of machinery for their propulsion, as well as the general requirements of the vessels of war by the Confederacy. Still, subject as it was to the orders of the Government (See Vol. 32, Series I, pp. 666, 789), inspection will show when 1,200 men were actually transferred from the Army to the several Naval Stations of the Confederacy, Columbus, Ga., included. When Columbus and the adjacent territory was threatened by Federal invasion under General Rosseau, the Battalion promptly responded to a call to the field, and moved to the front prepared to do its full duty. Later, when Atlanta had been captured and General Sherman was moving his hosts upon Savannah, the urgency of the situation caused those in authority to call upon the Battalion again for field service. Responding promptly our Battalion was ordered to Savannah to assist in its defense, arriving there some time before the Union Army gave us an opportunity of welcoming its advance on the firing line. It was not until some of our brave comrades of the Battalion had been killed and wounded that our officers allowed us to retire within the fortifications of the besieged city. The works occupied by our Command were so close to the enemy as to provoke an almost incessant and deadly rifle and artillery fire, which honor and duty obliged us to sustain, until the evacuation of Savannah, Ga., forced us to pass through the merciless shelling of General Foster's batteries into South Carolina, with the expectation of reinforcing the command of General Joseph E. Johnston. Nevertheless, at this time occurred the unique fact that our Battalion, even at this critical point, was, by direct order of President Jefferson Davis, sent back to its station at Columbus, Ga. (See Vol. 44, Series I, p. 996), thus emphasizing the fact of its members' worth in their original assignment on account of their technical superiority. This order, however, had the effect of shortening their period of field service in this campaign but later, April 16, 1865, when the attack on and capture of Columbus, Ga., by General J. H. Wilson, U. S. Army, occurred, the Battalion was again in the front engaged in the unavailing defense of that city.

Permit us to say that we believe from the foregoing recital, the correctness of which we certify to, that our comrade, James A. Gifford, who was an active member of Co. C, now a physical wreck, deserves at the hands of our great State, in which he has lived for forty years, recognition of his application for a pension.

Respectfully submitted,

Founded the firm of J. M. & J. C. Alexander, Hardware Dealers, in Atlanta in 1865. In 1879, the firm was succeeded by J. M. Alexander & Company, which business continued until 1947 under ownership of Cecil A. Alexander, his son. Julius M. Alexander's father and his uncle-in-law, Adolph J. Brady, were in the partnership at times. He did not care for public service, but was usually elected foreman of the grand juries on which he served. Was a member of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation.

In the fearful race riots in Atlanta in 1906, he was one of the committee of determined leaders who finally succeeded, under the Fifth Regiment National Guard, commanded by Col. Clifford Le Conte Anderson, in restoring order.

The ATLANTA JOURNAL of May 7, 1917 published the following:

"MR. J. M. ALEXANDER IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

He Was Pioneer Atlantan and Founder of City's First
Hardware Business

"Mr. Julius M. Alexander, pioneer Atlantan and founder of the oldest hardware firm in the city, Died Monday morning at his home, 49 Forrest Avenue, after an illness extending over several months.

"His death, though it was not unexpected, brings unutterable sorrow, not only to his family, but to hundreds of Atlantans bound to him by ties so precious that his passing robs them of a friendship endeared as few friendships are.

"Mr. Alexander was born in Athens, Ga., in 1844, being seventy-three years old at his death. He was the son of the late Mr. Aaron Alexander, who was a well-known druggist in Atlanta in ante-bellum days.

"Coming to Atlanta with his father when only a boy, Mr. Alexander had lived here ever since, so that his ambitions and his achievements kept pace with the growth of the city and his whole life was wrapt up in its welfare and its progress.

FOUNDED IN 1865

"In 1865 Mr. Alexander founded the first hardware store in Atlanta, known today as J. M. Alexander & Co., hardware dealers. He was actively in the business until his last illness compelled his retirement to his home several months ago.

"Mr. Alexander is survived by his wife, who was Miss Rebecca Solomons, of Savannah, Ga.; two sons, Henry A. Alexander, well-known Atlanta attorney, and Cecil A. Alexander, the junior member of the Alexander hardware firm. He also leaves one brother, J. C. Alexander, of New York City.

"Such a short sketch of Mr. Alexander's career cannot hope to embrace the true worth of his character, a character which his friends had come to admire and love as embodying the supreme spirit of unselfishness and service.

"He was a quiet, unassuming man, with the gentle, kindly humor of a boy and the great heart of a man who lived for others, yet would have been the last himself to acknowledge it.

"It was that inborn generosity, cloaked with the sincerest modesty, which was the keynote of his character. Public spirited to the core, he was one of the few men who preferred to keep his contributions to public enterprises anonymous whenever possible. Never was he approached in a worthy cause that he did not respond; but always he asked, even made conditional, that his own name be withheld. So did he give liberally and so, though the world seldom knew it, did those nearest to him honor him for his charity while they respected his wish of silence.

"Perhaps this phase of his nature could be no better illustrated than by the remark of one of his friends. 'He was the kind of man

A CONFEDERATE VETERAN

"Mr. Alexander was not a clubman or a member of any organizations save only Atlanta camp, United Confederate Veterans. Most of his time away from business he spent with his own family, but all who came in contact with him, either at home or abroad, carried with them from the meeting the memory of his genial smile and his kindly, whimsical humor. This was, perhaps, his rarest gift. Strangers to him could not but warm to the sunshine of his smile and his droll, ready wit, unbarbed with satire, yet withal so merry. No man or woman but was the cheerier for his presence, none but will miss him for his golden humor, if for nothing more.

"Mr. Alexander's business standing was integrated and he had built up a substantial fortune, both through his own house and through investments in Atlanta real estate and other enterprises."

The children of Julius Mortimer Alexander and Rebecca Ella Solomons were Henry Aaron, Cecil Abraham and Julius Mortimer Junior, (died in infancy).

Henry Aaron Alexander married Manya Zelmanova Klinitzkaya (Marian Kline), daughter of Rabbi Solomon bar Leib Klinitzky and Esther Marie Charnasson. Their children are Henry Aaron Alexander, Jr., Rebecca, Esther and Judith. Henry A., Jr., married Patricia Schoen. Rebecca married Nathan Shockert.

Cecil Abraham Alexander married Julia Moses, daughter of Judah Touro Moses and Charlotte Baer. Their children: Cecil Abraham Alexander, Jr. and Charlotte. Cecil Abraham Alexander, Jr., married Hermione Weil, daughter of Harold and Rosetta Weil. Children: Therese Julia and Judith Marian. Charlotte married Roman Lee Weil, son of Lee H. and Esther Weil. Their children: Roman Lee, Jr., Judith Alexander, Carol Ann and Kenneth Cecil.

EMANUEL AARON VAN BLITZ (7)

MERCHANT OF Haarlem, Holland. His name appears in the records relating to the distribution, on March 20, 1820, of the estate of his sister, Belitje Arons van Blitz, widow of Elias Levi Arons, to his granddaughters, Hannah Arons van Blitz, wife of Abraham Alexander, Jr., and Golah Arons van Blitz, wife of Simon Levy, all of which records are in the archives of Haarlem, Holland.

LEVI AARON VAN BLITZ (8)

RESIDENT OF Black Mingo, South Carolina, a settlement near Georgetown, which has disappeared. His name appears in the settlement, in 1820, of the estate of his aunt, Belitje Arons van Blitz. He had died before that date and his one-sixth part of the estate was inherited by his two daughters, Hannah Arons van Blitz, who was married to Abraham Alexander, Jr., and Golah Arons van Blitz, wife of Simon Levy, all living in Charleston, South Carolina. He was probably a native of Haarlem, Holland. He died in Black Mingo, Dec. 2, 1792.

Black Mingo was a settlement on Black Mingo Creek, flowing into Black River and located in Williamsburgh District near the Georgetown District boundary, about twenty miles northwest from Georgetown.

HANNAH AARON VAN BLITZ (9)

DAUGHTER OF Levi Aaron van Blitz of Haarlem, Amsterdam, and Black Mingo, S. C., was born in South Carolina in 1789 and died May 31, 1865 in Augusta, Ga., where she had refuged from the bombardment of Charleston during the Civil War.

Buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston, S. C., by the side of her husband, her gravestone reads as follows:

"Sacred to the Memory of
Mrs. Hannah, wife of Abraham Alexander

Who departed this life in the city of Augusta, Georgia, May 21st, 1865, in the 76th year of her age, whither she had fled to seek refuge when Charleston was bombarded. She was a native of this city, and was noted through life for all the virtues which adorn the female character, Being amiable, pious and charitable, and beloved by all who approached her.

This monument was erected to the memory of their beloved parent by her sorrowing children, as a token of filial regard for one who though aged, was taken too soon from them.

May she rest in peace."

She was blind the latter years of her life, having lost her sight through an infection from one of her infant grandchildren she was nursing. She was killed by a fall down stairs.

She was spoken of as a gentle and lovable woman of angelic spirit. Her son, the writer's grandfather, Aaron Alexander, loved her deeply. He would arise from his bed at night and, striking a match, gaze at a little tintype portrait of her on the mantel. She was a half-sister of Sarah Judith Joseph, wife of Eliezer (Lizar) Joseph of Georgetown. The writer's grandfather, Abraham Alexander Solomons and Aaron Alexander were half second cousins) and of Mrs. Simon Levy of Charleston, and a half-sister of Reuben Simon Krijn of Amsterdam (born in America).

Her will reads as follows:

The State of Georgia
City of Augusta

In the name of God, amen. I, Hannah Alexander of the City of Charleston in the State of South Carolina, widow, now temporarily residing in the City of Augusta in the state of Georgia, being of sound mind, memory, and understanding, do make, declare and publish this my last will and testament, as follows:

First, It is my will and desire that all my just debts and funeral expenses be fully paid and satisfied.

Second, It is my will and desire, that after my decease my remains shall be interred in the burial ground in the city of Charleston, South Carolina, where the remains of my beloved husband Abraham Alexander lie interred in the hope that through the mercy of Almighty God, we may be reunited again in another and better world to dwell together forever.

Third, I hereby will and bequeath to my daughter Catherine Alexander, all and singular, the furniture, plate, wearing apparel and jewelry which I may die possessed of, to have and to hold the same in her own right and for her benefit, to dispose of as she may wish.

Fourth, Recognizing with gratitude the important service rendered me in my old age and helpless blindness, by my daughter Catherine Alexander, and remembering that at my death she will be thrown helpless upon the world, and that my other children are all settled in marriage or otherwise are provided for, I hereby will and bequeath to my said daughter Catherine Alexander, the residue and remainder of my estate during the term of her natural life, together with the income to be derived therefrom, and the use of the same, to accrue to her benefit and sole enjoyment, provided nevertheless, that should my said daughter contract any debt or debts, or should she hereafter marry, and her future husband should contract any debt, or debts, that the said residue or remainder of my estate or income derived from it, shall not be liable for any such debt or debts of either my said daughter, Catherine Alexander, or her future husband, should she ever marry. At her death, it is my will, and I hereby bequeath and will the aforesaid residue and remainder of my estate, to my other children hereinafter named, to be equally divided amongst them, share and share alike, namely to Frances, widow of Joseph Joseph, Henrietta, wife of Marcus Hiltzheim, Aaron Alexander, Eleanor, wife of Moses Goldsmith, Rachel, wife of J. J. Cohen, Alexis Alexander, John Alexander, Rebecca, wife of Saul Magnus, and a child's share to the surviving issue of Catherine Alexander should she marry and have issue, their and each of their heirs and executors.

And lastly I do hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint my sons Aaron Alexander, Alexis Alexander and John Alexander, with full authority for either or all of them to act as executors of this my last will and testament, with a request that no security be exacted from them, and I hereby revoke all former will by me made.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this tenth day of December in the year One thousand and eight hundred and sixty three (1863). Interlined before the following words "are" "or income derived from it" "surviving."

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the said Hannah Alexander as and for her last will and testament in the presence of us, who at her request and in her presence and in the presence of each other have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses.

RELICS

Letters written by her to the writer's grandfather, Aaron Alexander;

1. Dated Charleston, March 22, 1836 addressed to Mr. Aaron Alexander, New York.

"Charleston, March 22, 1836

My dear Son,

I received yours from Norfolk yesterday and need not say my child

Forty-five

how anxious I am about you traveling in those steamboats for at best they are dangerous.

There is nothing new transpired since you left but the accident that happened to your friend Capt. Harby. I suppose you have heard by the papers that he got hurt at a fire that took place in Broad Street. He had his collar bone broken. He and several others were standing on the other side of the street, and the explosion was so sudden that they had not time to escape. How thankful I was to think you were not there. I am sure you would have been at his side and perhaps I then might have had more than your absence to deplore. How mysterious is the way of Providence. With what a protecting hand we are taken care of when we least think of His bounty.

My son, let me as a mother say to you that there is one great fault I have to find with you and that is your frequently taking your Maker's name in vain. I think it is the greatest sin we poor mortals can be guilty of as that great Name is too sacred to be called on for every trifling incident. You have no idea my dear Aaron how it shocks me to hear it from others. How much more so from one that I love with all a doting Mother's fondness.

This leaves us all well, and hope and trust it may find you the same. I have not heard from your father since you left but Frances got a letter and they were all well. If you write again before you leave tell me all the news you have from your place. I write to Sarah and Moses also your father. I really am angry with your father for his indifference. I hope you my son will let me hear often from you and when you intend to leave New York. Perhaps you may come by the way of Charleston. Let me know if you have nearly made all your purchases. Nothing from you will prove uninteresting.

I must tell you that your friend is expected to recover. I send every day to inquire how he is and will send your respects according to your request. I hope you and Charley may have many a frolic together yet. I truly feel for his poor old parent he had not seen for so long a time.

My paper is so bad that I fear you will scarcely be able to read this. You know you always laughed at my scratches. The ink sinks in such a muss.

Your sisters and their families are all well and send their love to you. Also the girls at home including Alexander and Aby. The weather is right cold this day. I expect you have it very cold where you are. Write soon. I have nothing more to inform you of. So must subscribe myself.

Your affectionate Mother,
H. Alexander."

2. Written in 1838 to her son, Alexander Alexander, on his departure for the West:

"My dear Son:

You are going to leave us perhaps forever as human nature is frail and we do not know how long it may please God to spare us but we must hope to meet again, please God.

I hope dear Son that you may always remember the advice given to you by one that you are more dear to than life for what would be life to me without my children.

Do not my dear child follow a multitude to sin but shun the brothel and the gaming table for they have brought many a good young man to shame and death finally. Do not think dear Alexander that I am not aware of your sober habits at this time but youth is soon led away by example and very often caught into meshes that they would otherwise shun but I am incapable of writing all I think. So pray God to keep you under his special care.

Address: A. Alexander, Esq.

Charleston, November the 27, 1843

I expect you will all say that Ma has forgot Her infirmity but I could not delay writing to my Dear Absent children any longer although I have no news to inform you of. As you have heard so recently your visitors all miss you very much, Catherine, all say that they are sorry that you left but I think you will like the change for a time. We are all very dull, have no business to employ our minds with.

Do tell Sarah that I had read her letter and am glad to find that she had not forgotten me. I hope all things may turn out to her satisfaction. I hope the dear children are well. As this leaves me at this time Rachel and Rebecca are upstairs at work. They do not know of my attempt or they would be astonished as I came down complaining of my eyes, but I write and leave it to my dear children to make it out if possible. I thought I would wait until Mr. Abraham returns and so I will, to close this, if he comes tomorrow. Everything goes on much the same. My dear Alexander I know that you heard with regret that Judah had his request granted to leave the Citadel and with it all advantage of further improvement. It frets me very much as I do not see anything to his benefit as I am afraid he will have to regret it all his life, but it appears the fate of the family but I do not despair. Some good may be in store if it is long acoming.

Do let me know how you like Athens and what you think of the business for on that all else must depend. We are bound to like a place where we can make out.

I know it will be a long time before I have the happiness of seeing you but I must submit cheerfully if I can if it is to your advantage which I trust in God it will. I hope Aaron you may prosper in all your undertakings as you have had a long run of bad luck. You have your parents' prayer for a change.

Do kiss the dear boys for us and tell Joe I should be glad to give it to him myself. Tell him he must not forget grandmother Alexander nor Moses, but I will let her plead for herself. Tell Sarah they are all quite well when I see them in Snoga. Frances and family, Eleanor and family also Henrietta and family were quite well when I heard from them.

It is near two o'clock. Your father is coming home to dinner. So I will leave off and resume my pen tomorrow, please God.

—Tuesday morning the 28. All well, thank God.

We did not receive your last letters until last night 9 o'clock when Luis came up from the City. They really make me cry to think what a state of mind you (Sarah) were kept in but you must really excuse your poor Husband for he was almost as much worried as you were for reasons which he can best explain and you my Dear Son will excuse your poor half blind Mouse for you know the exertion it cost me. Your sister would have written for me but things you would go from day to day but promise it shall not happen again if I can help it. Do, my child, do not picture the worst if you should not hear regularly for it is setting me a bad example now at last not very strong of mind now.

I shall comply with your request dear Sarah and remember you to all friends who regret your absence as much as myself.

I suppose Joseph Albert is a wild fellow and does not regret Jacob Melvin's company as much as he does his.

I again repeat there is nothing new to inform you of but I hope dear Children you will not follow your bad Mother's example and write us all the entertaining letters you can as we are quite dull at home.

How do you all like Athens. As it is like Vicksburg I suppose Aaron will like it but never mind how it is if it is a good place for business.

In the division of the inheritance of Belitze Arons van Blitz, widow of Elias Levy Arons of Noordwijk Binnen, and sister of Emanuel Arons van Blitz, poulterer of Amsterdam, which division was effected March 20, 1820, and recorded in the City Archives of Haarlem, Netherlands in the Notarial Archives, Inventory No. 1706, Act No. 51, as a protocol of the Notary Willem Arnoldus Haselaar, several family names and relationships appear as follows:

Sisters and brothers of Hannah Arons van Blitz:

Hartog Arons van Blitz

Mariana Arons van Blitz, wife of Lazarus Joel, merchant living at Deventer

Aron Jacob van Blitz, sometimes called Hoen, poulterer, of Amsterdam.

Isaac Jacob van Blitz, sometimes called Hoen, shopman by profession, of Mentz, Darmstad.

Mijntje Davids van Blitz, spinster, of age, daughter of David Arons van Blitz of Amsterdam and his wife, Roosje Joseph Rippe, whose second husband was Aron Salomon van Livenen, Wharfinger, of Amsterdam.

Golah Arons van Blitz, wife of Simon Levy of Charleston, S. C. (Moses, Ella and Frances Levy of Memphis, Tennessee, were her children).

All were children of Levi Arons van Blitz who died in Black Mingo, South Carolina, December 2, 1792 and is doubtless buried there. The writer has not yet searched for his gravestone. All were grandchildren of Emanuel Arons van Blitz.

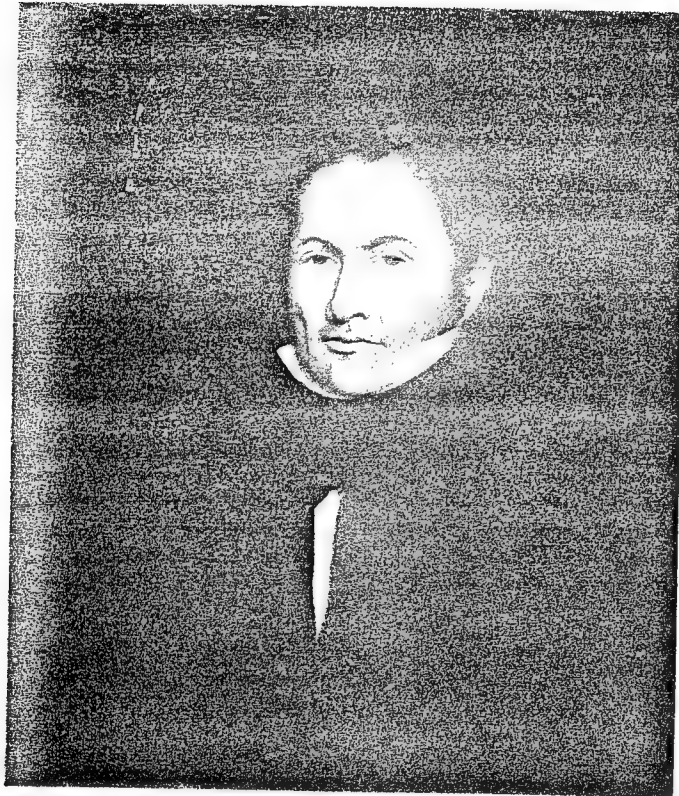

The family tradition is that

Mrs. Abraham Alexander, Jr. (Hannah Aarons van Blitz) and Mrs. Simon Levy (Golah Aarons van Blitz) of Charleston, S. C. were full sisters and half sisters of Mrs. Lizar (Eliezer) Joseph (Sarah Judah) of Georgetown, S. He was for years on the faculty of the University of Leyden and Head Master of the Municipal Gymnasium of Utrecht for Latin and Greek. He was a Knight in the Order of Orange Nassau. He died June 6th, 1953. Among his gifts to the writer are his published textbooks and a collection of ancient Sephardic Sidurim (Hebrew, Spanish and Portuguese Prayer Books). ISAIAH MOSES (10)

(In his Ketuba, his name is written, Isaiah bar Moses)

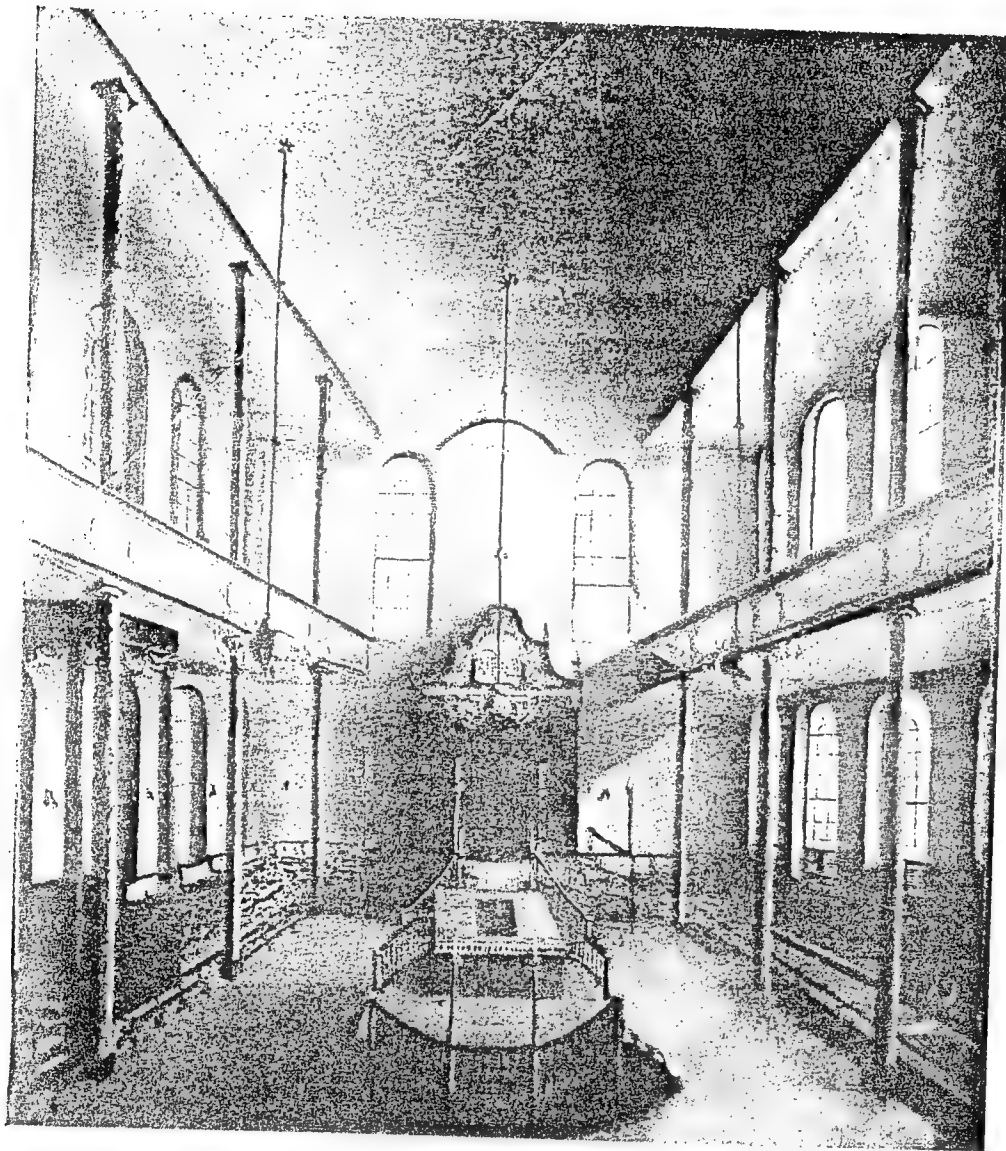

ISAIAH MOSES was a merchant of Charleston and planter at Goose Creek and Bushawee Plantations, which he owned in fee simple. For many years a leading member of the Adjunta or Board of Trustees of the Congregation Beth Elohim of Charleston. He was a leading opponent of innovations and reforms in the Sephardic Service, and was one of the leaders with Abraham Tobias of those resisting the giving up of the Sephardic Minhag (Spanish and Portuguese ritual) of the Congregation Beth Elohim as derived from the Sephardic Congregations of Amsterdam and London. The bitter struggle eventuated in litigation, reported in the case: The State ex relatione Abraham Ottolengui and others v. G. V. Ancker and others, 2 Richardson's Law Reports, South Carolina, 245, 259, 262. (January Term 1846, at Charleston.) Was a member of the Hebrew Orphan Society of Charleston. His portrait, painted by Theodore I. Moise, of Charleston and New Orleans, now hangs in the writer's home.

Born in Bederkese near Bremerhaven, in the Kingdom of Hanover, March 18, 1772. Married Rebecca Phillips, aged 15 years, 8 months, of Newport and Charleston, in Charleston, November 11, 1807. Died January 28, 1857 in Charleston. Buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston. Had twelve children, seven sons and five daughters, as appears from the following entries in his family Bible:

- Levy, born in Columbia, S. C., October 7, 1808.
- Hannah, born in Columbia, S. C., December 17, 1809.
- Jacob, born in Columbia, S. C., March 31, 1811.

AIRPLANE VIEW OF MUSCLE SHOALS IN THE TENNESSEE VALLEY SHOWING THE WILSON DAM
(4820 feet long)

It is interesting to note that about 1890 four of the grandsons of Isaiah Moses, sons of his eldest son, Levy—Mordecai Lyons, Henry Clay, Alfred Huger and Judah Touro Moses—all leading citizens and established bankers in Montgomery, Alabama, wrecked their fortunes in a daring attempt to develop hydro-electric power at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, now the largest hydro-electric unit of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and that some sixty years later Carl M. Loeb of Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades & Company of New York, who married Adeline, daughter of Alfred Huger Moses, and their sons, John L. and Henry A., as partners of that firm, participated in the financing of the highly successful organization of the Southern Company, a vast holding company for electric power companies in Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi and including the same area in which the original four Moses brothers operated.

Adeline Winthrop Moses, younger daughter of Judah Touro and Charlotte Baer Moses. Married Samuel Edwin Wolff, of Jackson, Michigan, Nov. 18, 1919. Her eldest daughter, Jeanne Touro married James Robert Guggenheim of Cincinnati. Their children are James R., Jr., Eve and Joanne. Her son, Edwin Lynn Moses married
Doris Selma Friedman, June 20, 1954. Her daughter, Adeline
Henrietta married Joseph Goldsten, Jr., June 28, 1951 and has a daughter, Carol Wolff.

SARAH MOSES (11)

DAUGHTER OF Isaiah Moses and Rebecca Phillips. Born in Charleston, S. C., May 25, 1813. Died in Atlanta, Georgia, at her home 163 Peachtree Street, July 10, 1892. Married in Charles-five sons and four daughters. All died in infancy except three sons, Joseph Albert, Jacob Clarence and Julius Mortimer Alexander. A woman of strong character, a devoted wife and mother, and although a partial invalid, of untiring energy. (15)

An Atlanta pioneer in 1848, she established the first Jewish Sabbath School, which she conducted in the forest around her home with fallen logs for benches, stressing the Ten Commandments and how and when to say the Shemang ("Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God, the Lord is One.") She also carried on each morning a little free pre-school of elementary English education in her own bedroom, mainly of course, for her grandchildren, but including also as a neighborly gesture the kids of her friends in the neighborhood. At this school quite a few important figures in Atlanta history got their first contact with reading, writing and arithmetic, especially with the multiplication table on which she sharply insisted.

None of her pupils ever forgot the final act in each session which was the recital, standing and with gestures, of the following indisputable truths:

"The sun rises in the East,
And sets in the West.
Before me is North
And behind me is South."

She was also an accomplished needlewoman in the grand Charlestonian manner and took delight in the practice of her art. As another friendly gesture to her neighbors, she would go around among them gathering up their dresses, shirts, socks, etc. which needed repair and returning them later beautifully mended. Especially was she devoted to Mrs. Logan E. Bleckley, wife of the Chief Justice, living on the next corner of Peachtree and Harris Streets, who was bed-ridden and deeply appreciated her help and company. When the writer left home for the University, she insisted on making him proficient in sewing on buttons and darning socks.

As she had done at Moyamensing Prison, Sarah stood squarely with her husband on the dread issues of 1861-64. Although her mother and some of her brothers and sisters thought otherwise, she was against secession and stood for the preservation of the American Union. The story is that after the ugly little night battle on the Columbus bridge, April 16, 1865, when friends ran to her to compliment her on some conspicuous act of courage of her son Julius M., she replied: "Pity it was not done in a better cause."

Nor was her opinion altered by the fact that Wilson's cavalry burned up some $50,000 worth of cotton belonging to Aaron Alex-

In 1883, Sarah Moses received the sum of about $1,500.00 from the estate of her father, Isaiah Moses. She used it to purchase a large lot in Oakland Cemetery at Atlanta, Georgia, which she divided up into eight smaller lots, giving them to her two sons, Julius M. and Joseph A. Alexander, and her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Rebecca Alexander Magnus and Mrs. Rachel Alexander Cohen.

She was buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston by the side of her husband.

CECILIA MOSES (12)

SISTER OF Sarah Moses, daughter of Isaiah Moses and Rebecca Phillips. Born in Charleston, S. C., July 18, 1815. Married Abraham Alexander Solomons of Savannah, December 6, 1843 at Charleston, S. C. Lived in Savannah, Georgia most of her life and died there April 27, 1882.

A woman of fine judgment and strong character. A strict but loving disciplinarian. She had 8 children, 3 sons and 5 daughters. Only 3 lived to majority: Rebecca, Isaiah, and Israella.

She is buried in Laurel Grove Cemetery, Savannah, in the Solomons family lot.

JACOB PHILLIPS (13)

MERCHANT trader along the Atlantic seaboard between New York, Charleston and San Eustatius, in the West Indies. Lived at times in San Eustatius, New York, Newport, the Northwestern section of South Carolina known as the "Ninety Six" District, and finally in Charleston, where he died.

Date and place of birth in England not known. Was a connection of a prominent family by the name of Phillips in England who were crockery manufacturers. His daughter Rebecca (Mrs. Isaiah Moses of Charleston and Savannah) used to tell her grandchildren of her English relatives and of the gifts of tea sets they sent her when a child.

Bedridden for years with rheumatism contracted at sea, he died about 1820 in Charleston in the home of his daughter Rebecca, Mrs. Isaiah Moses. It was the family custom for his grandchildren to be taken to his bedside every Friday evening to receive his Sabbath blessing.

Married Miss Hannah Isaacks of Newport, R. I., eldest daughter of Jacob Isaacks, August 13, 1785.

Mentioned as a member of Shearith Israel Congregation of New York (founded 1654) and attending meetings December 26, 1785 and January 15, 1786. Archives of that Congregation as reported in 21st Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, p. 148, 149.

Served in the militia of South Carolina during the Revolution in 1781 and was paid £ 6-5s-8 ½ d. principal and 8s, 9d as interest for pay for "service and supplies furnished" that year by indent (No. 205, Book S) issued June 10, 1785. Volume R-T, page 138 of Stub Entries to Indents for Revolutionary Claims, published by Historical Commission of South Carolina at Columbia.

Listed in "Heads of Families, First Census of the United States, 1790, State of South Carolina," on page 59 as a resident of Ninety Six District, Abbeville County, in the Northwestern section of the State. This is the district in which the illustrious Jewish Salvador family of Bevis Marks Congregation of London (Gates of Eternity) held a vast estate of 100,000 acres near Coronaco and Ninety Six, bought in 1755, where a scion of that family, Francis Salvador, was an eminent Revolutionary leader and in 1776 was killed in battle on the Keowee. Drayton's Memoirs of the American Revolution.

Entries in his Bible (Haftorah, a volume published in 1644 by Proops of Amsterdam with notes in Spanish) in the possession of the writer show his six children as follows:

Rachel b. 10/5/1786. (Married Michael Myers of Brightkaleras-ton, England, 10/10/1802. No issue).

Abraham b. 3/24/1788 not married.

Fanny, b. 2/5/1790. (Married Isaac Goldsmith of Charleston. Issue).

Rebecca, b. 3/19/1792 Married Isaiah Moses of Charleston. Issue).

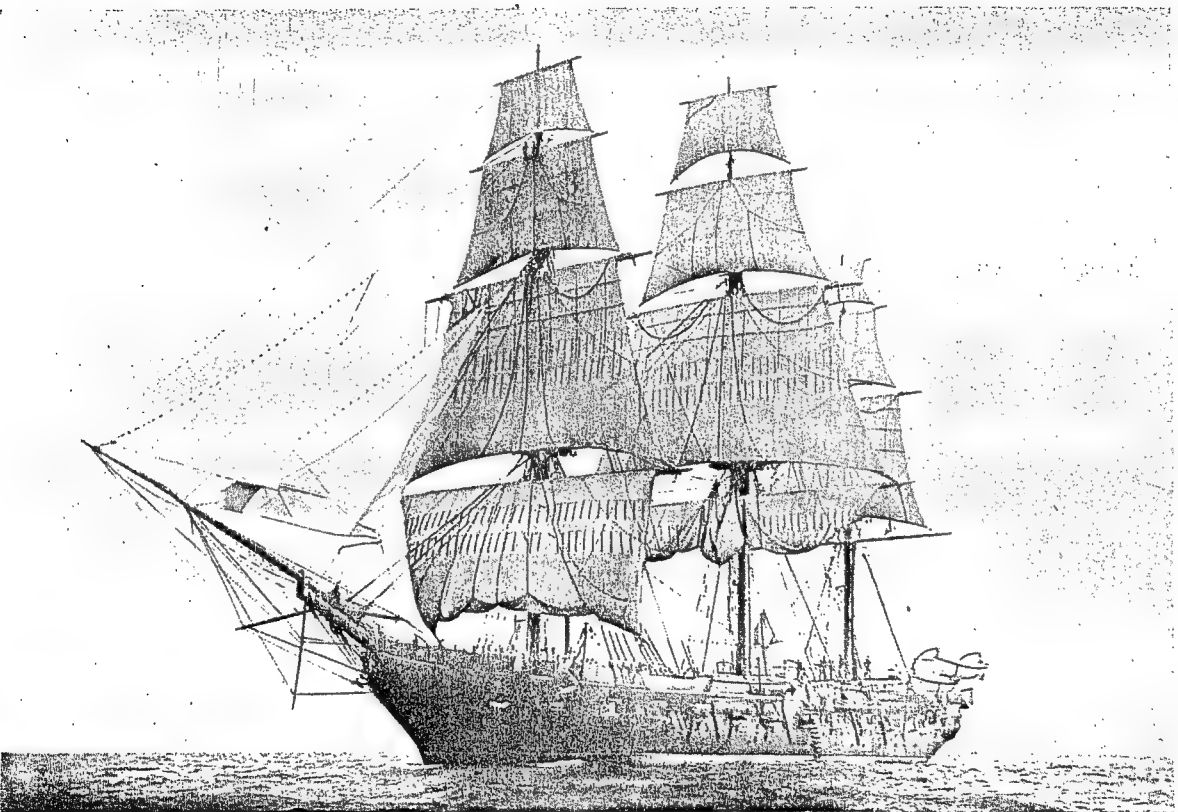

Esther, b. 12/6/1794 Married Isaac Hendricks of Augusta, Ga.).

Phillip, b. 11/5/1796 Married out of Faith).

His son, Abraham Phillips, on June 18, 1812, the same day Congress declared war against Great Britain, volunteered and was given appointment as a midshipman in the U. S. Navy; was sworn in Nov. 2, 1812 and assigned to the U. S. frigate Constellation, Capt. Charles Stewart, commanding. On April 15, 1813, was drowned in line of duty, when a scouting cutter from the Constellation with 17 men was overturned off Norfolk. All were saved except two officers, Lt. J. L. Biggs and Midshipman Phillips. Captain's Letters, Vol. 2, 1813, p. 190, Office of Naval Records and Library of the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

Sir

With extreme sorrow I have to inform you, that this Ship's first cutter proceeding on service with fifteen men Lieutenant Biggs, Master-mate La Roche, and Midshipman Phillips was overset not far from the Ship.
Lieut Biggs and Midshipman Phillips were unfortunately drowned; the boats succeeded in saving the rest. It is much to be regretted that these Officers, who bid fair to be an ornament to their Country, should meet a fate so distressing. We are grappling for their bodies but they have not yet been found.

I have the honor to be

Very Respectfully Sir

REBECCA PHILLIPS (14)

THIRD DAUGHTER of Jacob Phillips and Hannah Isaacks. Born at sea near San Eustatius, on a voyage between Newport, R. I. and the West Indies March 19, 1792.

Married Isaiah Moses of Charleston, Nov. 4, 1807, she being then fifteen years and eight months old; her husband thirty-five.

See Isaiah Moses, for her twelve children.

Died Dec. 24, 1872 in Savannah, Ga., in the home of her son-in-law, Abraham Alexander Solomons, who married her daughter Cecilia, 165 Chariton St., Southeast corner of Charlton and Barnard Streets, facing Pulaski Square. Buried in the Coming Street Cemetery in Charleston, the inscription on her gravestone reading as follows:

"Rebecca I. Moses
Consort of Isaiah Moses,
Died December 24th, 1872
Aged 80 years, 10 months and 10 days
Beloved and honored for her many virtues by her numerous descendants."

In the Civil War she was intensely Southern in her sympathies, although some of her children took the other view. During her latter years, she suffered from a partial paralysis caused by a stroke, resulting from the shock of hearing a newsboy in the street crying the news of Lee's surrender in April 1865, and although living in the same room in December 1864 when Savannah surrendered to Gen. W. T. Sherman and Federal officers were billeted in the same residence.

An entry in her house book, owned by A. B. Rosenfield of Long Beach, California, states she paid a visit to Atlanta June 22, 1852, probably visiting her daughters, Mrs. Aaron Alexander (Sarah) and Mrs. Adolph J. Brady (Adeline) who were living there at the time. Photostatic copy in writer's file.

Miss Hannah M. Moses of New York, well versed in the family history, has written that Judah Touro, an eminent figure in this country, offered to adopt her father, Abram Moses, sixth son of Mrs. Isaiah Moses, but he refused. Mr. Touro was a second cousin of Mrs. Moses through his grandmother, Clara da Isahaks or de Isaacks, who was a daughter of Jacob Isaacks. The name Isaacks was sometimes so written. She was also a sixth cousin of Touro through Moses Michael (q.v.)

RELICS

Oil painting, artist unknown, given writer by his mother. Mr. L. D. Skidmore, formerly Art Director of High Museum, Atlanta, examined the painting and said it was very beautiful and an exceptionally fine piece of work. He preferred it to the painting of Isaiah Moses by Theodore Moise, itself of highest quality.

These distinguished portraits were made originally at the instance of Mrs. Alexander Hezekiel Abrahams of Charleston (Hannah Moses, eldest daughter) and thence passed by gift through these hands: Mrs. Abraham A. Solomons (Cecilia Moses), Mrs. Isaiah A. Solomons, Sr. (Sarah Falk), Mrs. Julius M. Alexander (Rebecca Ella Solomons), Cecil A. Alexander, Jr., and the writer.

Pair of handsome silver candlesticks used for many years for the Friday evening Sabbath table. Property of Cecil A. Alexander, Sr.

Miscellaneous items of silverware marked R.I.M. (Rebecca Isaiah Moses).

ABRAHAM ISAACKS (15)

MERCHANT of New York. Was Parnas (President) of the Congregation Shearith Israel of New York in 1733 and 1737. 21 P. 211 and Gabay (Treasurer) in 1732. 21 P. 30.

The name of his wife was Hannah. He had three sons: Jacob, Moses and Abraham.

Up until 1954, there have been ten generations of his descendants of Jewish Faith in the United States. This is believed to be one of the oldest Jewish lines in the United States, going back into the seventeenth century and covering about 270 years.

From Emden, Friesland, then a part of the Kingdom of Holland. His grave stone in the cemetery of the Congregation Shearith Israel in New York City, near the corner of 21st Street and 6th Avenue, reads in translation as follows:

"Here lies buried

This translation was made for me by Rabbi David de Sola Pool, of the same Congregation, 99 Central Park West, New York, who accompanied the translation with the following letter:

"My dear Mr. Alexander:

Let me answer your special delivery letter at once.

The grave of Abraham Isaacks is the eighteenth from the Street (Twenty-first Street) and the twelfth from the Southern (rear) end of the row. It is between that of Esther Rachel Gomez (d. 1736) to the South and Abraham Nunes Henriques
(d. 1741) to the North.

His grave was transferred between June 6 and June 14, 1856, probably around June 6.

He was removed from the cemetery just South of Chatham Square, between Oliver and James Street from the part of the burial ground which is now the New Bowery, when the New Bowery was cut through the cemetery as a southern extension of the Bowery.

If there is any other information which you require, I shall be glad to give it to you if I can.

With kind regards,

Sincerely yours,

(signed) D. de Sola Pool."

He also had made for the writer at his request photograph of the grave stone, a copy of which is in his files.

Described as "venerable" by his grave stone, at his death in 1743, and assuming 85 years, he was born about 1658.

The South Ward included the area bounded by Broadway, Wall Street, Broad Street, and the Harbour, according to "A Plan of the City of New York From An Actual Survey made in 1730 by James Lyne." (Collections of New York Historical Society.)

On August 23, 1728, Abraham Isaacks with others presented a petition to Council for leave to establish a burial ground. The names on the petition were as follows: Abraham Isaacks, Joseph Nunez, Baruch Judah, Isaac de Medina, Daniel Nunez da Costa, Daniel Gomez, Jacob Hays, Lewis Gomez, Roderigo Pacheco, Mordy Gomez, Jacob Franks, Nathan Levy. (Minutes of the Common Council of the City of New York 1675-1776, 8 vol.; Dodd, Mead & Co., New York 1905, Vol. 3, p. 447.)

This is the famous cemetery, still existing, which is the oldest cemetery of any kind in New York City, located near Chatham Square, and antedating by many years even Trinity Church Yard. 21 P. XV. Abraham Isaacks was buried in this cemetery but when the Bowery was extended in 1856, it came through a part and the graves in that part were removed to the newer cemetery of the same Congregation on 21st Street near Sixth Avenue. Included in this area was the grave of Abraham Isaacks. The stone of reddish sandstone and perfectly preserved is the eighteenth from the street in the line of removed graves between those of Abraham Nunez Henriques and Esther Rachel Gomez. 18 P. 122, 32 P. 126.

In 1730, Abraham Isaacks took a leading part in the construction of the first Synagogue building erected in the United States. ("The Mill Street Synagogue 1730-1817) of the Congregation Shearith Israel, founded in the City of New York in 1655," by The Rev. D. de Sola Pool, Ph.D., Rabbi of the Congregation, 1930, New York.) Mill Street is now South William Street and the Synagogue stood on ground now "distinguished as Nos. 20, 24, 26 on which are erected several large brick stores." 21 P. 194. A small picture of the Synagogue appears in the margin of a map of N. Y. made in 1742, entitled "A Plan of the City and Environs of New York." Original in

On January 24, 1740, Abraham Isaacks was naturalized under The Naturalization Act of 1740 (13 Geo. II, c. 7.) (See manuscript record owned by the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street, entitled "The Severall Persons hereafter named took the Oaths made repeated the Declaration as Directed by an Act of Parliament made in the thirteenth year of the Reign of King George the Second—entitled 'An Act for Naturalizing such foreign Protestants, and others herein mentioned, as are settled or shall settle in any of His Majesty's Colonies in America.')" 37 P. 369.

There were at least eleven other Jewish merchants who were naturalized at the same time and place, to wit: Mordecai Gomez, Daniel Gomez, Jacob Ferro, Jr., Samuel Levy, Samuel Myers Cohen, Abraham Myers Cohen, Isaac Levy, Solomon Myers, Joseph Simson, Solomon Nare.

References to Abraham Isaacks are contained in the Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, notably in Volumes 21 and 27 containing the "Lyons Collection," chiefly in reference to the activities of the Jewish Community and of the Congregation Shearith Israel, as follows:

Abraham Isaacks died on September 24, 1743, as stated on his grave stone in the cemetery of the Congregation Shearith Israel, near the corner of Sixth Avenue and 21st Street, New York City.

On October 6, 1743, Letters of Administration were issued to "Hannah Isaacks, of the city of New York, widow and relict of Abraham Isaacks, late of the same place, Merchant, deceased," to administer his estate in the province of New York. 23 P. 152. (New York Historical Society Collections, 1892-1905. "Abstract of Wills," Vol. 4, p. 55, by Lee M. Friedman.

On July 19, 1744, Hannah Isaacks, wife of Abraham Isaacks, renounced administration of his estate in the province of New Jersey to Jacob Isaacks, his eldest son. Book D, 4609, Middlesex Wills.

His sons were Jacob Isaacks, 21 P. 25, Abraham Isaacks, Jr., 21 P. 38, who was a member of the New York Militia in 1738, 2 P. 92, Doc. History of New York, IV, 211-22; and Moses Isaacks of Newport.

Abraham Isaacks was the owner of the following real estate:

(1) House and lot on Pearl Street, New York City, now number 16 Pearl Street in modern numbering, fronting about 37 feet on Pearl Street, running back about 150 feet and 50 feet wide in rear. Deed Book 33, p. 507. Bought Sept. 23, 1728, from Wm. Ball and wife. Deed Book 31 p. 252. Abraham Isaacks lived there from 1728 to his death in 1743. Sold by Jacob Isaacks, eldest son and heir, to James Napier, January 3, 1753. Deed Book 33, 543.

Described in deed as:

"A certain house & Lot of Ground scituate Lying & being within the City of New York on the South Side of a Certain Street commonly called & known by the name of Pearl street bounded and containing in length the Breadth as is herein more particularly and at large mentioned and exprest which said house & Lott of ground & preemises was Ratified Confirmed & Granted unto William Kork his Heirs and assigns by Richard Nicolls Esqr. late Govr. & Commander in Chief of the Province of New York under his Royal Highness James Duke of York & Albany etc. as by a certain grant & confirmation thereof and bearing date the twenty first day of October in the Nineteenth year of the Reign of King Charles Second one thousd six hundred and sixty seven Reference thereunto had doth & may more fully & at large appear which said William Kork was the Grant father of Dirck Kork who is Heir at Law of the said William Kork which said Dirck Kork granted and conveyed the said mentioned House and Lott of Ground & premises unto the said William Ball his Heirs & assigns as by a certain Indenture or Instrument bearing date the twenty sixth day of October last Reference Thereunto had doth more at large appear" and "bounded East by the House and Ground belonging to the Heirs of Johannes Meyer Deceased, West by the House and Ground of Jannetie Valk, South by the House and Ground of Governor Dungan or his assigns & North by the said Pearl Street, containing in Breadth on the front along the street two Rodds four foot four Inches & five Grains in the breadth in the Rear three Rods one foot three Inches on the West side in length Nine Rods seven Inches & on the East side in length nine Rods two foot & five Inches."

In Castello's pictorial plan of New Amsterdam made in 1660 (the original in Florence, Italy) and redrafted in 1916, the "House and Lott" are actually depicted and may be seen two hundred and forty feet from the northeast corner of Pearl and Whitehall. New York Historical Society's Collections.

The writer is indebted to Mr. Joseph Lapidus, assistant solicitor of the Title Guaranty and Trust Company, 176 Broadway, New York 7, New York, for working out the exact location and the modern numbering, 16 Pearl Street.

The second son of Abraham Isaacks was Moses Isaacks, who married Rachael Mears, daughter of Judah Mears and Jochebed Michael and sister of Rebecca Mears who married Jacob Isaacks—sisters marrying brothers. He was a prominent citizen of Newport, R. I., a Revolutionary officer, and entertained President George Washington at his home during the presidential visit in 1790. RELICS OF ABRAHAM ISAACKS

- (1) A manuscript copy of the Schachrith (Morning) service written by him in his own hand.

The original of this manuscript is now in the possession of the American Jewish Historical Society. The writer has in his possession a photostatic copy. In 27 P. 150, there is the following: "Portion of the manuscript copy of Daily Prayers in English of Mr. Abm. Isaacs, grandfather of Mr. Sampson M. Isaacs (Mr. Isaacs died in 1743)."

- (2) Talith (prayer shawl) of crumbling silk of Abraham Isaacks which came down to the writer through the same line as the hheyth ornament described under "Hannah Isaacks."

HANNAH ISAACKS (16)

DATE AND place of birth unknown. Died between July 19, 1744 and Sept. 21, 1745.

Appointed administrator of her husband, Oct. 6, 1743, in the colony of New York. She died and her eldest son, Jacob Isaacks, was appointed in her place, Sept. 24, 1745.

New York Historical Society Collections, 1892-1905, Vol. 4, p. 55. 23 p. 152.

Like steps were taken in the colony of New Jersey, presumably to handle the properties of Abraham Isaacks therein at Griggstown, N. J. Hannah Isaacks renounced administration July 19, 1744, and Jacob Isaacks qualified in her stead July 27, 1744.

Her renunciation was signed by her "mark," the Hebrew letter "hheyth" and her name is in the writing of her son Jacob.

Her name "Hannah" has been carried on through eight generations by her granddaughter, Hannah Isaacks of Newport, her great (2) granddaughter, Hannah Moses Abrahams of Charleston and her great (5) granddaughter, Mrs. Hannah Falk Regli of Mahopac, New York (Mrs. Werner Regli).

Relic: a metallic brooch or neck ornament in the form of the Hebrew letter "hheyth" the first letter of her name, Hannah, meaning "Grace" in Hebrew. Given the writer by his aunt, Mrs. Isaiah Abraham Solomons (Sarah Falk) of Savannah, to whom it was given by her grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Moses Abrahams of Charleston, to whom it was given by her grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Isaacks Phillips of Newport, to whom it was given by her grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Isaacks of New York.

JACOB ISAACKS (17)

MERCHANT and ship broker of Newport, R. I. No definite evidence has yet come to the writer showing the place of Jacob Isaacks' birth, but circumstances indicate that he was born in one of the British Colonies, probably the Colony of New York. This is inferred from the fact that his father was from the City of Emden, in Friesland, then in the Kingdom of Holland (ceded to Prussia in 1744) and came to the British Colonies as an alien, the New York Colony having been taken from the Dutch by the English in 1664. Abraham Isaacks, the father, was naturalized by the General Assembly of New York in 1722, made a freeman of the City of New York in 1723, and naturalized as a citizen of the British Empire in 1740 under Act of Parliament. It is apparent that the father was well aware of the importance of naturalization, and presumably would have had his son naturalized had it been necessary.

From the fact that none of these steps were taken by the son, Jacob Isaacks, it is inferred that he was born in a British Colony, probably New York.

The records show that the father, Abraham Isaacks, owned property in Griggs Town, Somerset County, on the Millstone River, in New Jersey; in Barnegat, Colony of New Jersey; in Oyster Bay, Long Island, in the Colony of New York; and in New York City, where he is buried.

Jacob Isaacks may have been born in any one of these places.

July 27, 1744—Letters of Administration were issued to Jacob Isaacks for the Estate of Abraham Isaacks in the province of New Jersey.

September 24, 1745—Letters of Administration were issued to Jacob Isaacks, eldest son of Abraham Isaacks, for the administration of that part of his estate which remained unadministered by his wife, Hannah Isaacks, who was first appointed administratrix. The property referred to as being "a part of the Estate of Abraham Isaacks" was a plantation in Griggs Town on the Millstone River in Somerset County, New Jersey.

What is probably a description of the place is contained in an advertisement in New Jersey Archives, Volume 12, 202, as follows: "To be sold a very good plantation in Griggs-Town, Somerset County, New Jersey, joining to Mr. Nobles Mills on Millstone River, containing about 120 acres of good land, with a good dwelling house, store house, barn, two barracks and orchard, and an extensive well, 30 acres of good meadow, and very good conveniences. Whoever has a mind to purchase the same, may inform themselves of David Hays, living on the premises, or of Isaac Seixas, in Stone Street, New York, N.B. The title is indisputable. From the New York Weekly Post Boy, January 2, 1744."

1744—In 1744 Jacob Isaacks moved from New York City, where he had previously lived, to Newport, Rhode Island, where he remained until his death March 20, 1798.

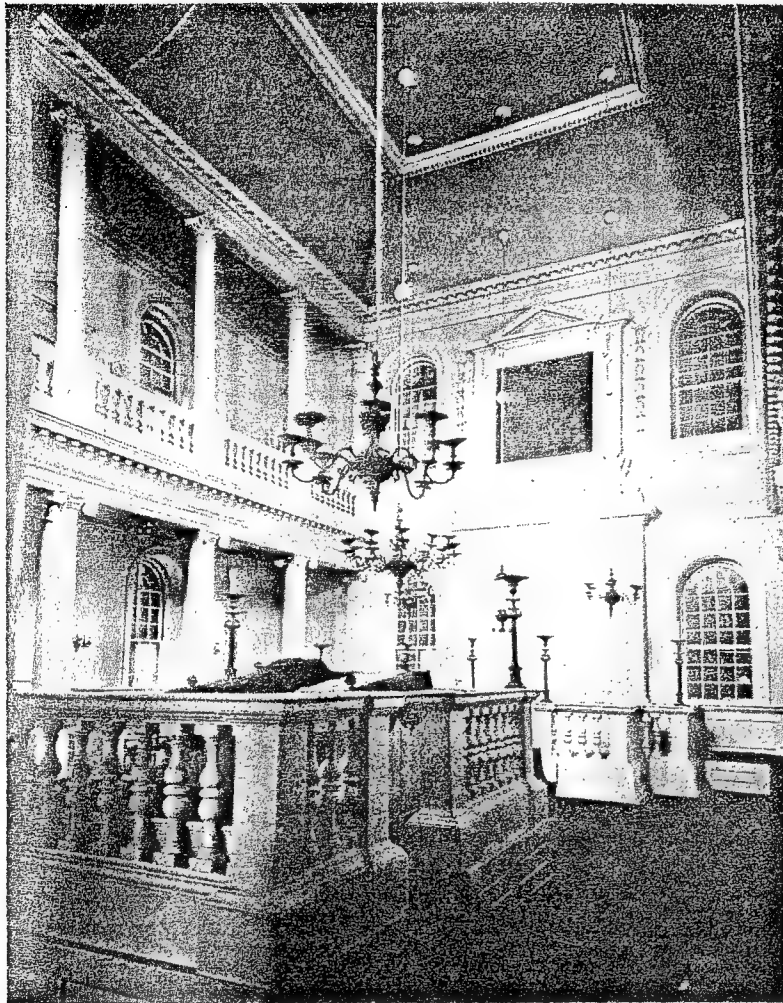

1745—In 1745 one Jacob Isaacs was a private in the company of Captain Samuel Lumbart, which was the 10th Company of the 7th Massachusetts Regiment, commanded by Colonel Shubel Gorham, in the expedition sent out by the Colony of Massachusetts Bay for the capture of Louisbourg in Cape Breton in 1745. (Volume 25 of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, 461.)

This is a part of an article on "Louisbourg Soldiers," communicated by the Hon. Charles Hudson, of Lexington, Massachusetts, in October, 1870. The beginning of this article is found in Volume 24, page 367, in which it was said:

"Every antiquary who has attempted to explore that field must have been disappointed in not being able to find a list of the gallant men who served in the memorable expedition to Cape Breton in 1745, when the undisciplined militia of New England took Louisbourg from the veteran troops of France. It will be recollected that that expedition originated with the Colony, and was executed by colonial troops. The bravery displayed and the complete success which crowned the enterprise, attracted attention across the Atlantic, so that the mother country readily assumed the act and paid the cost of the expedition. To adjust these accounts, it became necessary that they should have the rolls, and they were accordingly sent to England and have never been returned."

On October 16, 1752, Jacob Isaacks executed a power of attorney to Joseph Simson and Samuel Hart to sell for him as administrator of his father, Abraham Isaacks: a house and lot in Pearl St., lot of land in Oyster Bay on Long Island and house and lot in Griggstown, New Jersey. Liber 33, p. 507. N. Y. Hall of Records.

February, 1758—The appeal of Jacob Isaacks to the King and Council against John Merritt was referred to the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Council for handling appeals for the plantations, to-wit: The Lord President, The Earl of Halifax, Earl of Egmont, Lord Berkeley of Stratton, Lord Sandys, Master of the Rolls, and Chas. Townshend, Esqr. The appeal was sustained and the judgment of the Superior Court for Providence County, Rhode Island, was reversed, Isaacks thus winning the case.

In that connection, see Privy Council 2/105, p. 471, and Privy Council 2/106, pp. 33-35, 40, Public Record Office Chancery Lane, W. C. 2, London, England. See also "Annual Report of the American Historical Association for 1894," by Harold D. Hazeltine, pp. 343-345.

In the records of Congregation Shearith Israel, on April 16, 1747, the name of Jacob Isaacks appeared in "a list of such persons as have been taxed according to the aforesaid resolution, with the sums they are to pay for one year, Vizt: Jacob Isaacks, 3.10." (21 P. 53.)

In 1747 memorandum of payment by him of 3.8.9 (21 P. 55.)

On October 5, 1750, mentioned as a contributor to seats in the amount of 1.16.6. (21 P. 64.)

On March 21, 1759, Jacob Isaacks was one of a committee of the Congregation Yeshuat Israel, of Newport, Rhode Island, that solicited assistance for the erection of a Synagogue in Newport from the Congregation Shearith Israel in New York City. (27 P. 178.) On the same page is a letter acknowledging receipt of such help, dated May 28, 1759, together with a facsimile of the signatures on the letter, including that of Jacob Isaacks which were:

Abm R.'s Reveira, Isaac Polock, Aaron Lopez, Moses Lopez, Jacob Isaacks, Isaac Elizer, Moses Lopez, I. Hart, Jacob Rod's Rivera, Issackar Polock.

Addressed to Messrs. Mayer Myers and Jacob Franks. Parnassim of K. K. Sebert Israel at New York.

October 8, 1760—Jacob Isaacks was married to Miss Rebecca Mears, daughter of Judah Mears, son of Samson Mears. Her mother was Jochebed Michaels, daughter of Moses Michaels. (Record of Marriages in Record Book of the Congregation Shearith Israel, New York City, Vol. 1, folio 14.)

1760—Mentioned in Stiles Diary, "Jews in Newport in 1760." (Diary of Ezra Stiles, Vol. 1, p. 11.)

1762—Mentioned in the article "Ezra Stiles and the Jews," by Rev. W. Willner, of Meridian, Mississippi.

In Book of Miscellaneous Notes appears a "list of owners of vessels in Newport in 1762. Mr. Jacob Isaacs 1 brig." (8 p. 124.)

1761—Jacob Isaacks was a member of a club formed by the Jews of Newport in 1761. In the Newport Historical Magazine, Vol. 4, pp. 58-60, (found in the library of the American Antiquarian Society of Worcester, Massachusetts, Clarence S. Brigham, Director in 1932) the editor of which magazine was R. Hammett Tilley, of Newport, is an article relating to this club, as follows:

"A CLUB FORMED BY THE JEWS, 1761

"By the courtesy of David King, Esq., we are enabled to present the following curious paper to our readers, which is interesting as affording a glimpse of the social life of a very interesting and important portion of the denizens of this ancient borough in its days of metropolitan splendor. Evidently progress has been made, since half a bottle of wine was regarded as enough to supply each guest at a banquet, and 10 o'clock at night the period for its conclusion.—(Ed.)

- Third —No person to be admitted as a member of said club without approbation of the members.
- Fourth —Each of the members shall have liberty to invite his friends to the club, well understood, one at a time only.
- Fifth —The hours of the club to be from 5 to 10, in the manner following: From 5 to 8 each member is at liberty to divert at cards, and in order to avoid the name of a gaming club, the following restrictions shall be strictly observed, viz.: That no member shall presume or offer to play for more than twenty shillings at whist, picquet or any other game besides his club; on proof of gaming for any more, the member or members so offending shall pay the value of four bottles good wines for the use and benefit of the ensuing club night.
- Sixth —At eight of the clock the supper (if ready) to be brought in. At ten the club to be adjusted and paid, and no cards or any other game shall be allowed after supper.
- Seventh —After supper if any of the members have any motion to make relating to the club he must wait until the chairman has just drank some loyal toast.
- Eighth —That none of the members shall . . . during . . . conversation relating to Synagogue affairs, on the forfeit of the value of four bottles good wine for the use as aforesaid.
- Ninth —If any of the members shall behave unruly, curse, swear or offer to fight, the chairman shall lay such fine as he sees fit, not exceeding, for each offence, four bottles good wine for the use aforesaid.
- Tenth —If any of the members happen to be sick or absent, by acquainting Mr. Myer with the same, shall be exempt from paying anything towards the club, but if no notice given as aforesaid, shall pay his quota of the supper only.
- Eleventh —If any of the members does not meet at club nights, and can't offer sufficient reason for so doing, the chairman with the members shall determine if he or they are to pay the proportion of the whole club, or the quota of supper only.
- Twelfth —If any of the members neglect coming to club three nights successively without being sick or absent, shall be deemed unwilling, consequently his name shall be erased from the list, not to be admitted during the season without the consent of the chairman and all the members.

Fourteenth—Every member, after signing the articles, and not willing afterwards to conform to the same, his or their names shall be erased out of the list, and no more to be admitted during the season.

In witness whereof the members of said club have signed their respective names the day and year above written.

John Smith was the Deputy from the Town of Providence and a member of the Committee of Safety.

Peter Phillips was of North Kingston, and a member of the House of Magistrates and Commissary of the Army of Observation.

October, 1781—A resolution was adopted by the Rhode Island Assembly on the petition of Jacob Isaacks. The report of the Committee on this petition has not been found. (Schedule for October, 1781, p. 19 in the manuscript records of the General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island, Office of the Secretary of State, Providence. State Bureau of Information, Howard W. Preston, Director.)

Schedule

October 1781

p. 19

"Whereas Mr. Jacob Isaacks of Newport, preferred a Petition, and represented unto this Assembly, that he was possessed of Eighty-six Casks of white and spermaceti oil, of his own Property, which he lodged in Warren, under the Care of Martin Luther, in December, A.D. 1776; and by an Order of the Council of War, in July, A.D. 1778, the said oil was removed by the sheriff of the County of Bristol to Providence, and thereupon he prayed this Assembly to appoint a Committee to enquire into the same: Which being duly considered, It is voted and Resolved that John Jenckes and Adam Comstock, Esquires, be and they hereby appointed a Committee, to make Enquiry into the subject-matter of the said Petition: That they enquire whose Property the said oil was, when taken into Custody, together with the Quantity, and every Circumstance relating thereto, and in particular what became of the monies arising from the Sale thereof, and that they report the issue to this Assembly at the next Session, that Justice may be done."

August 20, 1785—In the Newport Mercury on the third page is a notice, as follows:

"Marriage)—Mr. Jacob Phillips, of New York, to Miss Hannah Isaacks, eldest daughter of Mr. Jacob Isaacks, of this City."

(Note that in the genealogical chart of the invaluable article by Jyda R. Hirsch on "The Mears Family and Their Connections," in 33 P. 200, Hannah is not listed as the eldest daughter.)

The original of this newspaper is found in the John Carter Brown Library, of Providence, Rhode Island.

On the same page appears an advertisement of Jacob Isaacks, as follows:

"To be disposed of, by Jacob Isaacks, a Brigantine of about 160 Tons, Four Years old, lately fitted for a Guineaman, of the following Dimensions, viz. 62 Foot Keel, 23 Foot Beam, and about 5 Feet between Decks, with all her Sails and Rigging in good order.

ALSO

A single-deck'd Brigantine, 18 Months old, of about 155 Tons; a new double-deck'd Ditto of 170 Tons, completely fitted with Rigging, Sails & and a Number of Hulls of Vessels from 60 to 120 Tons, now on the Docks, and nearly completed.

LIKEWISE

High proof West-India Rum, by the Hogshead at 2/6, per Gallon, and by the Quantity cheaper; Bohea Tea, by the Chest or smaller Quantity; Rice by the Cask and Tar by the Barrell. Newport, August 20, 1785."

August 19, 1790—George Washington, President of the United States, arrived in Newport for a visit of state accompanied by George Clinton, Governor of the State of New York, Mr. Jefferson, Secretary of State, Mr. Justice Blair, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States, and others. On page three of the Newport Herald of August 19, 1790, occurs the following paragraph after the report of this visit:

JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE

Friday, February 25. (1791)

"A petition of Jacob Isaacs, of Newport, in the State of Rhode Island, was presented to the House and Read, praying that some adequate reward or gratuity may be made to him, for the discovery of an art or secret which he possesses, of converting salt water into fresh, so as to render it proper for every purpose for which spring or fresh water is wanted, by a simple process, easy and unexpensive.

Ordered that the said petition be referred to the Secretary of State, with instructions to examine the same, and report his opinion thereupon to the House."

Tuesday, November 22, 1791.

"The Speaker laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of State, accompanying his report on the petition of Jacob Isaacs; which was read, and ordered to be on the table." Ibid, page 459.

In making his report Mr. Jefferson called in the aid of Dr. David Rittenhouse, President of the American Philosophical Society, Dr. Caspar Wistar, Professor of Chemistry at the College of Philadelphia, Dr. Hutchinson, Professor of Chemistry, University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Center.

Mr. Jefferson filed an extended adverse report reviewing the whole subject of obtaining fresh water from salt, mentioning the discoveries of Lord Bacon and Sir Richard Hawkins in the 16th century, Glauber, Horton, and Lister in the 17th and Hales, Appleby, Butler, Chapman, Hoffman, Dove, Lind, Irvin and de Bougainville in the 18th century, and on November 26, 1791, the same was examined and recorded in Congress. (See Jefferson manuscript, Department of State, in the Library of Congress, 4th Series, Vol 1, p. 140; Ibid 1st Series, Vol. 4, p. 254; Ibid, page 159; showing also letter to Dr. Center, dated Philadelphia, March 26th, 1791; letter to Dr. Hutchinson, dated Philadelphia, March 12, 1791; letter to Dr. Wistar, dated Philadelphia, March 20, 1791; and letter to Mr. Isaacks, dated Philadelphia, November 23, 1791.)

The Secretary of State, to whom was referred by the House of Representatives of the UNITED STATES, the petition of JACOB ISAACKS of Newport, in Rhode-Island, has examined into the truth and importance of the allegations therein set forth, and makes thereon the following Report.

The petitioner sets forth, that by various experiments, with considerable labor and expense, he has discovered a method of converting salt-water into fresh, in the proportion of 8 parts out of 10, by a process so simple that it may be performed on board of vessels at sea by the common iron caubase, with small alterations, by the same fire, and in the same time which is used for cooking the ship's provisions, and offers to convey to the government of the United States, a faithful account of his art or secret, to

It has been said that the style of the handwriting of Mr. Jefferson's report indicates that it was written by Benjamin Bankson, Secretary to the Secretary of State and his Chief Clerk.

See article by Herbert Friedenwald, Ph.D.: "Jacob Isaacks and his method of converting salt water into fresh water." (2 P. 111.)

March 20, 1798—In the Newport Mercury of Tuesday, March 20, 1798, appeared the notice of the death of Jacob Isaacks, as follows:

"Died) In this Town, on Sunday Evening last, in an advanced Age. Mr. Jacob Isaacks, a worthy Member of the Jewish Society to which he belonged. He bore a painful and lingering Illness with Patience and Resignation; and as Honor, Integrity and Rectitude of Conduct ever marked his Character, he rests where they are rewarded, though he died much lamented and regretted by all who knew him." (Arnold's Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 13, p. 521.)

Similar notices appeared in the Providence U. S. Chronicle of March 29, 1798 (Arnold, Vol. 15, p. 519) and in the Providence Gazette of March 24, 1798 (Arnold, Vol. 12, p. 54.)

May 7, 1798—Administration on the Estate of Jacob Isaacks granted to Rebecca Isaacks, of Newport. (Book 3 of Administrations, p. 95.)

June 2-10, 1799—Report of Debts totaling $101.39.

The probability is that Mr. Isaacks was buried in the Cemetery Yeshuat Israel in Newport, but search by the writer in 1930 for a grave stone was unsuccessful. Fragments may be found among the buried debris of old broken grave stones which were gathered up and buried in the cemetery at the time it was cleared up and put in order for the funeral of Judah Touro, June 6, 1854.

Her death was reported in the same paper of April 24, 1798 as follows:

SAMSON MEERES or MEARS (19)

PROMINENT merchant and Communal leader of London.

Date and place of birth unknown. Died in London 1711. Married Joy or Joyce.

That he was the father of Judah Mears and the grandfather of Rebecca Mears, the wife of Jacob Isaacks, is shown by the records of the Congregation Shearith Israel concerning the marriage of the latter October 8, 1760, in which Rebecca is referred to as the "daughter of Judah, son of Samson." Marriage contract of Jacob Isaacks and Rebecca Mears, in Volume 1, page 12, dated 28 Tishri, 5521.

The children of Samson and Joy (Meeres) Mears were (1) Judah, who married Jochebed Michaels, daughter of Moses Michaels and granddaughter of Asher Michaels de Paul and (2) Grace who married first Moses Levy and second David Hays. 33 P. 199-210.

On August 15, 1701, describing himself as Samson Mears of London, Merchant, he executed a power of attorney to Moses Levy and Samuel Levy of New York (brothers) for better management of my affairs in New York and in the West Indies, etc. Recorded in Deed Book 25, page 10. Hall of Records, N. Y. City.

Supporting Marcus Moses in his long struggle with the "Great Synagogue" in 1702, Samson Mears and Abraham Nathan were leaders in the movement which eventuated in the establishment of the "Hambro" Synagogue in 1724 in Magpie Alley, also known as Fenchurch Street Synagogue, which "prospered greatly and was for over two centuries, one of the principal synagogues in London. It was pulled down in 1893 to make room for city improvements, and its place in the United Synagogue of London was taken by a new synagogue erected in Union Street, Commercial Road.

From the "History of The Great Synagogue," London, 1690-1940
by Cecil Roth:

In Chapter III, "The Fathers of the Community" page 26: "Another noteworthy family was that of Mears, probably of Dutch origin. Sampson Mears was an importer and shipowner, whom we meet later on as a dockyard superintendent. His kinsman, Jacob, was subsequently at the head of a syndicate of English merchants and sea-captains who approached the King of Prussia with an East African colonization scheme, which, had it been carried out, might have changed the face of history."

Page 29: "We have left the most prominent of all to the last. This was the learned, restless, overbearing R. Abraham, who had resided so long in London that he was often called Reb Aberle London, though sometimes from his place of origin Reb Aberle Hamburger. The son of the Hamburg Parnas R. Moses Nathan, or Norden, famous in that community in his day, he had received a thorough Talmudic education and was given the Rabbinical diploma: though his material circumstances were so good that it was unnecessary for him to make use of it except (it must be feared) when he wanted to make himself a nuisance to others. He was a merchant on a large scale, in partnership with Sampson Mears, and their ships went as far afield as the West Indies."

Page 28: "The Assessment Records of the City parishes in 1695 give us several names, which indicate something of the numerical importance of the community. In the parish of St. James's, Duke's Place, alone we find Sampson Marks, Michael Boss, Emanuel Isaac, Mordecai Abraham,—Meers, etc."

Page 35: Beginning the narrative of the secession from the Great Synagogue which led to the establishment of the Hambro' Synagogue, it is said: "One of Marcus Moses' closest business associates was a certain Abraham Nathan, whom he accompanied more than once to the Continent. It would seem that the two and Sampson Mears, R. Aberle's partner, homesick for the scholarly traditions of Hamburg, wished to set up in London a Beth haMidrash for study, with a synagogue attached, etc."

Page 36: The first legal move against the plan was the following citation from the Court of Aldermen of the City of London:

"Tuesday, 20 March, 1704

Mr. Abraham Mendez and Mr. Moses Hart now acquainting this court that Abraham Nathan an inhabitant in St. Mary Axe, Samson Mears inhabiting in Goodmans Fields and Marcus Moses of White-chapel, Jews of the German Nation and others were erecting a New Synagogue in St. Mary Axe aforesaid without permission of this Page 64: "The Mears family too had their connections in the colonies."

In the "Chronological Synopsis" page 301, the following references to the "Hambro'" Synagogue appear:

- 1704. Attempt to set up a rival congregation suppressed.
- 1706. Dispute leading to establishment of "Hambro'" Synagogue.
- 1805. "Treaty" between the City Synagogues.
- 1835. "New Treaty" between the City Synagogues.
- 1863. Suggested amalgamation with "Hambro'" Synagogue.
- 1936. Reunion, after 230 years, of the "Hambro'" Synagogue with the Great Synagogue.

In her distinguished and invaluable article, "The Mears Family and Their Connections, 1694-1824," 33 P. 199, Mrs. Iyda R. Hirsh Leavitt, formerly of the secretariat of the Congregation Shearith Israel says, on page 210: "Since a genealogical investigation of the Mears' family connects practically all of the early Colonial group, its lineage is of fundamental importance."

The name "Mears" appears to have been written originally as "Meeres" in the letters of administration recorded at Somerset House London or as "Meres" in "List of Jews Made Denizens, 1661-1687" by Oppenheim, 20 P. 813.

Here is an item that may have had some connection with his service as Constable of the East Ward—a copy of a Complaint in the files of a court of common pleas of New York: "Judah Mears v. Henry Cregier, Complaint."

"Judah Mears of the City of New York, Merchant, came this 16th day of August 1753 and Complains agt Henry Cregier of the city of New York aforesaid, Mariner, for that the said Henry Cregier did on the 20th day of June 1753 at the City of New York aforesaid in the North Ward of the same city in and upon this Compl't and Johavath his wife make an assault and them did beat wound etc and prays an Information.

One "John Cregier, Mariner" was made and registered a Freeman of the city of New York on June 27th, 1738, about a month after Judah Mears was made a Freeman. Burghers and Freemen of New York, p. 136.

The records of Shearith Israel Congregation for 1760 relate that Judah Mears "turned out" his niece Josse, the daughter of Judah Hays, from her seat in Synagogue in order that his own daughter might occupy it. He was fined forty shillings "in order to prevent for the future any person assuming to themselves the authority of determining the proximity of seats in the Synagogue." The dimensions of the Synagogue were 30 by 30 feet, with a women's balcony. The Mill St. Synagogue, Dr. Pool.

Died at Cape Francois, now Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 7, 1762, as shown by the following on the records of S. I. Congregation:

"On the 26th Sivan 5523, the 7th June 1762, Departed this life at the Cape Francois Mr. Judah Mears of this Congregation. The news was brought about the time of Rosasana by some acquaintances that came from that place and veriflicated after that by Letters from that place."

Judah Mears was the owner of a tract of land in Oyster Bay, Long Island.

See comprehensive article on the genealogy of the early Jews of this country in 33rd Publication of the American Jewish Historical Society, page 199, under title "The Mears Family and Their Connections, 1696-1824," by Iyda R. Hirsh. In this article Miss Hirsh, now Mrs. Charles S. Levitt, 340 St. Johns Place, Brooklyn, N. Y. says:

"Up to the time of the Revolution there was a very limited number of Jews in the American Colonies. Since the families were few and their children many, intermarriage among them was inevitable. Hence, a genealogical investigation of one family becomes a certain degree an account of practically the entire early group. Through the Mears family almost all of this early group of Jewish families is connected." On page 207, of the same article, it is said:

"It may be observed that this family of merchants constituted the gentfolk of their generations. In describing a service which he attended in Synagogue, in Creechurch Lane, Leadenhall Street, in London, Thomas Crumpton, in a letter written April 12, 1662, to Revd. Jo. Greenhalgh, minister of Ashley Chapel, said, 'They were all gentlemen (Merchts) I saw not one mechanick person . . .' In the eighteenth century 'merchant' was written after a man's name much in the same manner as a college degree is today."

Among the descendants of the Mears family are:

Rabbi Gershom Mendes Seixas, famed Revolutionary leader, Trustee of Kings College, now Columbia University, and one of the clergymen participating in the inauguration of General Washington; Rebecca Gratz and Emily Solis-Cohen of Philadelphia; Emma Lazarus of New York; and Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

On Nov. 26, 1855, her remains were removed from the oldest cemetery in Oliver Street to the cemetery in 21st Street, N. Y. Her gravestone stating she died on Shebat 5500 January 22, 1740, age 87 years. 18 P. 121, 27 P. 122.

Her name "Rebecca" recurs in ten alternate generations as follows: in her granddaughter, Rebecca Michaels Hays of New York; in her great granddaughter, Rebecca Mears Isaacks of Newport; in her great (3) granddaughter, Rebecca Phillips Moses of Charleston; in her great (5) granddaughter Rebecca Solomons Alexander of Atlanta; and in her great (7) granddaughter, Rebecca Alexander Schockert of Philadelphia.

MOSES MICHAEL (25)

SON OF Asher Michael de Paul. Born August 8, 1677; died December 8, 1740 in Curacao, Dutch West Indies, aged 63 years and four months, and there buried in the Portuguese Cemetery, the oldest in the Western Hemisphere. For many years a merchant in New York City and a prominent member of the Congregation Shearith Israel.

The late Dr. Walter M. Straus of New York, a close student of the older records of Congregation Shearith Israel was of the opinion that Asher Michael de Paul and Moses Michael were brothers and sons of "Michael." (Letter to writer, July 20, 1936). However, at that time he did not know of the gravestone of Moses Michael in Curacao showing his dates as 1676-1740. In view of this disclosure and the death of Asher Michael de Paul about 1701, Mrs. Iyda R. Hirsch Leavitt former secretary and archivist of the Congregation, said she believed the relation was father and son, in which the writer concurs.

The records of that congregation recite:

"On Sabbath the 19th of Iyar 5490 (May 6, 1730), it was resolved by the Parnas Presidente Mr. Jacob bar Naphtaly (Franks) and his assistants Messrs. Mordy Gomez and David Lopez to sell in public on the Sabbath day the first stone of the building of the holy synagogue, which stone had been kept unsold because it had been offered to Mr. Abraham de Mucata of London, and his answer as to whether he accepted was pending, and as he did not accept, it was sold in public, as above mentioned, and was bought by Mr. Mosseh Bar Michael for three pistoles, which was recorded in his own name with the others and with the same privileges as the other three." In an article "Jewish Life in New York before 1800" by Max J. Kohler (Vol. 3, page 84. Publications of American Jewish Historical Society 1895), it is said:

"This article may fitly be brought to a close by a reference to a very striking incident in old New York history. Among the most interesting incidents referred to in the last number of this Society's proceedings was that of the subscription list circulated in 1788 among non-Jews of Philadelphia on behalf of the synagogue of that city, to which the names of Benjamin Franklin, Charles Biddell, William Bradford, David Rittenhouse and others were signed.

"It appears, however, that the Jews of New York, more than seventy-five years before them, had exhibited a similar liberal spirit, and apparently without any such direct appeal to them as was resorted to by the Jews of Philadelphia to the Christian subscribers. In a work entitled Historical Sketch of Trinity Church by the Rev. Wm. Berrian (pp. 18, S. 25) we learn that a subscription was started in 1711 towards building the steeple of that church, as a result of which £312 13s 7d were collected, the Jews contributions aggregating £5 12s 3d. This list of donors is as follows:

"The Jews' contributions:

The children of Moses Michael and his wife Catherine Haya Hannah are shown in his will, written in Dutch and executed Jan. 22, 1740 in Curacao. Recorded in the Hall of Records, New York City.

In English translation as follows:

"In the name of God Amen. On this day the 22nd January, 1740, there appeared the Norwegian Aldert Pottey my secretary in the service of the General Chartered West Indies Company in Holland, residing on the island of Curasoa in the presence of the above mentioned witness, Mr. Moses Michael, widower of the late Catherine Hachar of the Jewish nation, now residing on this island. My secretary and witness testify that the principal is ill, though in possession and use of his reason, memory and speech as it seemed to our secretary and witness. In recognition of the certainty of death and the uncertainty of its time and hour, he, the principal prepared to dispose of all the earthly goods loaned to him by God Almighty, by this will without coercion or persuasion from anyone. And before coming to this, the principal commended his soul to the mercy of God and his corpse to the earth in the Jewish Cemetery with honorable burial. The testateur has revoked, cancelled and made null and void all last wills and testaments prior to the date upon which this is made or passed, not wishing or desiring that any of these should have the least effect. And coming to the disposition, the testateur declared in this will to prelegate to his granddaughter, Olkaley Myer Cohen a sum of two hundred (200) pounds in New York money. But in the event of her death as a minor or spinster, the aforementioned sum is to devolve upon her sister Haya Meyer Cohen. The testateur likewise prelegates to his granddaughter Haya Meyer Cohen aforementioned the sum of one hundred (100) pounds in New York money. It is the will and desire of the testateur that the aforementioned prelegated capital be invested at interest in behalf of the legatees. Also the testateur prelegates to his negro Piro his freedom and release from all slavish services, of which the executors to be mentioned must take cognizance. The testateur desires all his clothes and converted gold and silver with his two negroes named Thom and Prins as also a pair of Rimoni or silver clocks bought by him in Holland, as soon as they are received to be remitted to his children and heirs. The Testateur names as sole and universal heirs his four children named Johevit Michal married to Judah Mears, Rachael Michal, married to Samuel Meyer Cohen, Rebecca Michal married to Judah Ehays and Bloeme Michal married to Aaron Louzado, all the goods without exception, both real and personal after the death of the testateur to be duly put in the possession of aforementioned. This testateur designates and names as executors of this will in New York his four sons-in-law, aforementioned and here on this Island, Mr. Isaac Levy Maduro and Senor Cohen Henriquez, Jr., with all the due powers and faculties with which the law invests them. All which has herein been written the testateur declares to be his last will and testament and should be effective after his decease as testament codicille among the living, which the testateur seeks to make effective by law and wishes the secretary to make it Acta in forma. Mr. Henry A. Alexander,

Dear Mr. Alexander:

I returned to this my native island last month for a few months' stay, and recalling your request, made to me in New York in May 1935, for data concerning your ancestor, Moses Michael, who died in Curacao in 1740, I took the matter in hand at once with the result that I am able to send you herewith a copy of Moses Michael's epitaph, together with my comments, which I hope may be of some interest to you. It is one of the most remarkable tombs in our venerable cemetery—with a sepulchral inscription in three different languages!

Assuring you of my pleasure in being able to furnish you the above information, and with best regards to you and Mrs. Alexander, in which my family cordially join, I remain, at your entire commands,

Sincerely yours,

Moses Michael

"He is the first Askenaz to be buried in the old Sephardic Cemetery in Curacao.

"His epitaph in three languages: English, Hebrew, and Spanish.

Incongruities:

"The English text gives date of death as December . . . 9 8 740 (indecipherable) and name as Moses Michall.

"The Spanish text gives date of death as Monday 25 Tebeth 5500 (corresponding to January 25, 1740), three days after he made his will in Curacao.

"The Hebrew and Spanish texts give his name as Moseh Br (bar—son of) Jehiel, and the age at which he died as 63 years and 4 months.

"The Hebrew text proclaims him an important person, who "originated from the provinces of Askenaz, Hartfeld (or Ertzfeld) the capital."

"S.B.A.G.D.L.G. stand for: Su bendita alma goce de la gloria.

"The Hebrew text has a few orthographic errors corrected by Rabbi Dr. Isaac S. Emmanuel with square brackets on the attached copy of the epitaph.

"His Will gives his name as Moses Michal, widower of Catharina Hachar.

"In Dr. D. de Sola Pool's 'The Mill Street Synagogue (1730-1817) of the Congregation Shearith Israel' his name is given as Mosseh Bar Michael, and his wife's as Haya Hannah Michalls.

"In his Will he mentions his four daughters, all married: Johebit, Rachael, Rebecca, and Bloeme.

"In 'The Mill Street Synagogue' a son of his is mentioned: Michall Michalls, who, obviously, predeceased his father, Moses Michalls, a leading personality of the New York community at the time of the erection of the Mill Street Synagogue.

"From the following words appearing in his Will "thans sig alhier op dit Eyland bevindende" (at present finding himself in this Island) one may conclude that Moses Michalls was not actually residing in Curacao, but had come to this Island probably on business."

In graduating from Columbia College, N. Y., in 1800 Samson Simson delivered an address in Hebrew which gave a short account of the Jewish Community of New York. 27 P. 374, 37 P. 430. A great grandson of Moses Michael, he was guided by Rabbi Gershom Méndes Seixas, a trustee of the college, who was a great grandson of Samson Mears, 33 P. 210,

Translated into English, it read:

"Although not accustomed to speak in public I rise with perfect confidence that you will kindly consent to listen to me and I earnestly crave your indulgence for any error I may commit in the course of my address.

"And if I have found grace in your eyes, I shall essay to speak concerning my brethren residing in this land. It is now more than 150 years since Israelites first came to this country at the time when this province was under the dominion of Holland, but until now no one of them or their children has on a similar occasion been permitted thus to address a word in public, and I am a descendant of one of those who were among the first settlers here.

"It is known to you that at the time when this province then called New Amsterdam, was exchanged for the colony of Surinam, all the inhabitants remaining here came under the dominion of England. Among them were the Jews who until then could only congregate for worship in private rooms in their own dwellings until the year 5490 (1734) (according as we reckon in this city of New York). It was then our regular Synagogue was built, where we have been serving Almighty God unmolested for upwards of seventy years. During this long period, the Jews have not been as numerous as the other sects, for only few in number they came hither; but now, behold the Lord has enlarged and increased in this and in all the other provinces of these United States the descendants of those few families that came from Holland in the year 5420 (1660), one hundred and forty years ago.

"Among these was one man, (Moses Michael) with his wife, one son and four daughters. The father and son died soon after they had reached this place, leaving the wife with her four daughters and behold they have exalted themselves in this city, and from them sprang forth many of the Congregation now known as "Shearith Israel."

Afterwards in the year 1696, there came from France some families by the way of England, who brought with them letters of denization from the king, constituting them freemen throughout all the provinces under his dominion.

"And in the year 1776, at the time when the people of this country stood up like one man in the cause of liberty and independence every Israelite* that was among them rose up likewise and united in their efforts to promote the Country's peace and prosperity. And even now we endeavor to sustain the government of these provinces, free of any allegiance to any other whatsoever, monarchical or republican, and we exclaim in the language of King David, 'Rid us, (O Lord!) from the hand of the children of the stranger, whose mouth speaketh vanity and whose right hand is the right hand of falsehood.'" 27 P. 374, 37 P. 430.

It is obvious that the "man with his wife one son and four daughters" was his own great grandfather, Moses Michael; the "son" was Michael Michaels whose will is copied herewith; and the "Four daughters" were Jochebed who married Judah Mears. Rebecca who married Judah Hays, Rachel who married Samuel Meyers Cohen and Bloeme who married Aaron Louzada.

"The will of Michael Michaels," who died before his father, reads as follows:

"In the name of God Amen. I Michael Michaels of the City of New York, merchant being weak of body but of sound and perfect mind memory and understanding Do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and form following that is to say. First and principally I recommend my soul to Almighty God and my Body to the Earth to be buried at the discretion of my Executors hereafter named and as touching such worldly estate as it has pleased God to bless me with I give and Bequeath the same as follows First, my will is that all my just debts and funeral charges be paid and satisfied in some short time after my Decease Item. "Rachel Levy, spinster, daughter of Moses Levy" was doubtless his betrothed; Samuel Myer Cohen was his brother-in-law and David Hays was the step-father of Rachel Levy. She afterwards married Isaac Mendes Seixas and was the mother of Gershom Mendes Seixas. Her portrait attributed to John Wollaston appears on page 93 of "Portraits of Jews" by Hannah R. London. Judah Hays is one of the ancestors of the eminent Hays family in this country and Samuel Meyers Cohen, of the distinguished Mordecai, Myers and Ezekiel families of Virginia.

ISRAEL SOLOMONS (28)

BORN IN Amsterdam, Holland, 1770. His name in Holland was van Blitz, changed to Solomons when he came to America. Lived all his life in this country as a merchant in Georgetown, S. C. Married twice. First, to Miss Esther Ottolengui, daughter of Abraham Ottolengui of Charleston, October 8, 1808, by whom he had one daughter, Rinah. Second, to Eleanor Joseph, daughter of Eliezer (Lizar) Joseph and Sarah Judith, May 1814, by whom he had seven sons and one daughter. Eleanor Joseph was nineteen years, five months and twenty-six days old when she married, and Israel Solomons was forty-four. He became in 1822, a member of the Winyah Indigo Society of Georgetown, S. C., which is still in existence. He died August 10, 1830, in Georgetown, S. C., at the age of sixty, and was buried in the Jewish Cemetery there where a stone marks his grave inscribed as follows:

SACRED

To the Memory of
ISRAEL SOLOMONS

A Native of Amsterdam Holland who departed this life
The 10th day of August, 1830, In the 60th year of his age.
If the duties of a husband, a parent and a friend performed without fear or without reproach can hallow the spirit of whose loss this tablet deplores, An enviable situation."

His children were:

Lizar Joseph, m. Perla Sheftall
Abraham Alexander, m. Cecilia Moses
Mordecai, m. Abigail Gomez Emanuel
Sarah Judith, m. Levi Cohen
Judah, m. out of Faith
Joseph M., m. Zipporah Solomons

Moses Joseph, m. (1) Henrietta Joseph, (2) Henrietta Emanuel.

The mother of Israel Solomons was named Judith.

The writer thinks there is a connection between Israel Solomons and "Salomon Salomon," one of the famed company of Jews that landed in Savannah July 10, 1733, five months after the first settlers with Oglethorpe—the same company that included Dr. Samuel Nunez the noble physician, whose skill and devotion, according to Oglethorpe's own letter of August 12, 1733 to the Trustees, saved the Colony from extinction by a devastating epidemic and refused any pay for his services. Egmont Collections, Vol. 1, University of Georgia. See Volume with Records of arrivals in series of original manuscript records of the Earl of Egmont, now in the library of the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga., and a "List of the Early Settlers of Georgia" edited by E. Merton Coulter and Albert B. Saye, p. 95.

For several years Solomon Solomons was one of the fiscal agents of the Trustees of the Colony. His name is spelled "Solomons" in numerous other colonial records. Ga. Colonial Records. Candler.

The correct full name is Solomon Solomons and so written in the letter of August 30, 1774, written by Mordecai Sheftall, the executor of Solomon Solomons, to Mr. John Houston in reference to payment of a debt of Solomon Solomons (New York Public Library archives), also written by himself "Solomon Solomons."

ABRAHAM ALEXANDER SOLOMONS (29)

SON OF Israel Solomons and Eleanor Joseph. Wholesale and retail druggist of Savannah, Ga. Born at Georgetown, S. C., May 2, 1816. Married Cecilia Moses at Charleston December 6th, 1843. Died in Savannah at his residence, 165 Charlton Street, southwest corner of Barnard Street, fronting Pulaski Square August 8th, 1899.

His father died when he was fourteen years old, throwing largely upon him and his aunt, Charlotte Joseph and his mother, Eleanor Joseph, the responsibilities of the family.

On December 15, 1835, he was granted a license by the Medical Society of South Carolina, Edward W. North, President, having studied in Charleston and proved his qualifications to "carry on the business of Apothecary and Druggist in all their branches in the State of South Carolina." Solomons, Jr. the present president and Abraham A. Solomons, Chairman of the Board of Directors. Philip Solomons, a great grandson, is Secretary of the Company. For many of the most prosperous years, Isaiah A. Solomons, son of the founder, was president. It has been, since its founding, the leading drug business of Savannah and southeast Georgia.

Abraham A. Solomons was a life long member of the Congregation Mickve Israel of Savannah and a member of the Benevolent Association of Savannah, a society whose members were pledged to remain in Savannah to assist the sick and bury the dead during yellow fever epidemics—a deadly and constant menace until the discovery of its control.

During the Civil War, on account of his age and calling, he did not serve in the field; was a captain in the Home Guards. Several Federal officers, and the well known newspaper correspondent "Doe Sticks" (Mortimer Neal Thomson—afterwards editor of "Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly") were quartered in his residence, 165 Charlton Street, during the occupation by Sherman's army, in December 1864. None gave the least trouble except "Doe Sticks," who was removed on complaint of Mrs. Solomons at Army headquarters.

Lived for a short time before marriage in New York City and after marriage in Cheraw, S. C.

Buried in Laurel Grove Cemetery, Savannah, in the Solomons family lot.

For many years, A. A. Solomons and his brothers, Lizar, Joseph M. and Moses J. were among the most prominent and popular citizens of Savannah, particularly Joseph M. who had served in 1864 on the staff of General Joseph E. Johnston in the campaign from Dalton to Atlanta and might be said to have been a prime favorite of the City until his death at the age of 96.

The children of Abraham A. and Cecilia Moses Solomons were: Israel, Abraham Alexander, Gertrude Moses, Rebecca Ella, Israella, Isaiah Abraham, and Louise Freighley. Israel, Abraham, Gertrude and Louise died in childhood. Rebecca Ella married Julius Mortimer Alexander of Atlanta, and Isaiah A. married Sarah Falk of New York. Israella was the beloved favorite.

An interesting record in the archives of Solomons Company is the agreement of their Northern creditors to extend payment of their liabilities because of the post-war hardship.

"Memorandum of agreement made and entered into this twenty-seventh day of June, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, between the undersigned, creditors of A. A. Solomons & Co. of the city of Savannah, State of Georgia, and the said *A. A. Now therefore in consideration of the sum of one dollar by each of the parties hereto to the other in hand paid, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, and in consideration of the mutual agreement hereinafter contained, the parties hereto agree as follows—

The said creditors agree with the said A. A. Solomons & Co. and each other that they and each of them will not, until one year from the date hereof shall have elapsed, resort to any legal proceedings to compel the collection of their respective claims against the said A. A. Solomons & Co.

LT. SIMON MICHAEL II

Son of Max and Cecilia Solomons Michael of Athens, Ga.

Born March 31, 1922

Killed in battle January 22, 1944 at the Rapido River in the movement on Cassino by the Fifth Army, 36th Division.

Solomons Company has always had a high reputation. A valued souvenir is a note from Gen. Robt E. Lee for the filling of prescriptions, dated April 20, 1870 when he was in Savannah, the last year of his life, reading:

"Messrs. A. A. Solomons & Co.

—Please prepare for me the enclosed prescriptions and return them with the medicines & oblige

Yours

Savannah, Geo: 20 Apl 1870

R. E. Lee."

The children of Isaiah Abraham Solomons and Sarah Falk were Abraham Alexander, Henri Cecil, Cecilia Moses, Isaiah Abraham, Jr., Joseph M., Jr. and Sarah Falk, Jr.

Cecilia married Max Michael, son of Simon and Anna Michael. Their children: Cecilia, Max, Jr., Cecil and Simon (killed at the Rapido).

Max Michael, Jr. married Barbara Siegel. Their children: Max, III, Robert Oliphant, Paul Ramsay, Lloyd David.

Cecil married Frederick Gordon Barnet, Jr. Their children: Frederick Gordon III, Simon Michael.

Isaiah A., Jr. married Lena Shulhafer, daughter of Adolph and Augusta Shulhafer. Their children: Isaiah A. III and Philip. Isaiah A. III married Marie Strauss. Their children: Suzanne, Walter, Virginia. Philip married Shirley Massell. Their children: Philip, Jr., Ralph Stewart.

Joseph M. Solomons, Jr. married Sarah Rosolio, daughter Aaron and Semita Rosolio. Their daughter Jane married Charles Max Furchgott, son of Melvin and Dora Brown Furchgott. Their children: Charles Max and Constance Jane.

REBECCA ELLA SOLOMONS ALEXANDER (30)

DAUGHTER OF Abraham Alexander Solomons and Cecilia Moses. Born in Charleston, S. C. June 24, 1854, in the same house in St. Phillips Street and in the same bed in which her mother was born in the home of her grandparents, Isaiah and Rebecca Moses. Educated in the private schools of Savannah, under Professor Mallon. Lived in Savannah, Ga. until her marriage October 8, 1873 to Julius M. Alexander, when she came to Atlanta.

Died in Atlanta June 17, 1938 in her apartment on Juniper Street where she had lived seventeen years before her death—most of the time with her younger sister, Israella Solomons (who died there August 4, 1924) and with her faithful companion, Mary P. Cook. She is buried in the family lot in Oakland Cemetery, Atlanta, with her husband.

It is difficult to convey the impression of beauty and goodness she made upon those who knew her, from the time she came to Atlanta as a bride until her death. "When she had passed, it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music."

JOSEPH STEGG OF MANNHEIM (31)

FATHER OF Eliezer (Lizar) Joseph of Georgetown, S. C. His name is written in Hebrew in "A Lunar Calendar" by Moses Lopez of Newport, Rhode Island approved by Rabbi Gershom Mendes Seixas and printed 1806 at the office of the Newport Mercury, 27 P. 458. This calendar is owned by the writer.

The inscription is: "Lizar the son of Joseph Stegg, the Memory of the Righteous is a Blessing, of Mannheim."

He is also referred to in the Hebrew inscription on the gravestone of Mrs. Lizar Joseph (Sarah Judith), his daughter-in-law in the Jewish cemetery in Georgetown, S. C.

ELIEZER (LIZAR) JOSEPH (32)

SON OF Joseph Stegg, born at Mannheim, Germany, 1762, died at Georgetown, S. C., June 25, 1827. Buried in the Jewish cemetery at Georgetown by the side of his wife. Member of the Congregation Beth Elohim of Charleston. Married Sarah Judith, daughter of Jacob Judah of Charleston. They had eight children, two sons and six daughters:

Jacob Judah Joseph, named for his grandfather, married a Miss Emanuel of Georgetown, S. C.

Joseph Joseph married Frances Alexander, eldest daughter of Abraham Alexander, Jr.

Eleanor Joseph married Israel Solomons.

Molcie Joseph married Samson Solomons.

Sarah, Charlotte and Clara were unmarried.

Isabelle married Levy L. Joseph.

Lizar Joseph was for many years a prominent figure in Georgetown: in 1799, Clerk of the Market; in 1802, in the vendue & commission business and U. S. Inspector of Customs for the Post of Georgetown. "Message from the President of the United States (Thos. Jefferson), Transmitting a Roll of the Persons having Office or Employment under the United States. Published by order of the Senate. February 16, 1802." In 1826, warden of Georgetown and coroner; and in 1801 was elected member of the Winyah Indigo Society, a social organization of planters established about 1740 and still in existence. He was secretary at one time.

The following was given me by Judge Walker Hazard and his daughter, Miss Hazard of Georgetown, he a member of the Society:

Lizar Joseph was a nephew of Israel Joseph, president of the Congregation Beth Elohim of Charleston from 1765 to 1790. His will is on record in Charleston: His wife, Miriam, died Feb. 7, 1816. Their daughter, Mary, married Levy Moses, brother of Isaiah Moses, Feb. 1, 1809 in Charleston. Courier Feb. 9, 1809. Jewish Marriage Notices, S. C.

The inscription on his tombstone at Georgetown, S. C. reads as follows:

"We bow with humble resignation
To Thy will O Lord,
For all Thy Works are just.
Beneath this tomb lies the remains of
Mr. Lizar Joseph
A native of Manheim in Jermamy
Who died at Georgetown, S. C. on the 25th of June 1827
Aged 65 years."

Solomons (Zipporah) Solomons, niece) and placed in the coffin of their Aunt Charlotte at her death and at her request and buried with her in Laurel Grove Cemetery, Savannah, Ga.

Lizar Joseph lived for some time at Black Mingo, South Carolina, where his daughter Eleanor (Mrs. Israel Solomons) was born November 9th, 1794. This was an old settlement in Williamsburg District about a mile north of the bridge over Black Mingo Creek where crossed by the road to Britten and Bradley's ferry on the Great Pee Dee River and about a quarter mile west of Black Mingo Creek. That road was the boundary between Georgetown and Williamsburg Districts. It was about 18 miles from Georgetown to Black Mingo along the post road. See Mills Atlas of South Carolina 1825. It is a tradition in the Joseph family that it was from swamp lands of Israel and Lizar Joseph in the vicinity of Black Mingo that General Francis Marion, the "Swamp Fox" carried on his operations during the Revolution. Weem's Marion p. 119.

A legend in the Joseph-Solomons families runs as follows: One day Lizar Joseph and his wife of Georgetown, South Carolina, were strolling on the beach of nearby Winyah Bay when they came upon a bay tree in full bloom. Breaking off a sprig, he handed it to her, saying: "May I present this bay blossom to the blossom of the Bay?"

The painting of Sarah Judith Joseph by Sully has been lost as before narrated, but a daguerreotype of her daughter Eleanor (Mrs. Israel Solomons) discloses a face of grave and noble beauty. If the mother's face was like her daughter's, and it probably was, it is not difficult to understand him. At any rate, it became a tradition in the Joseph-Solomons line that in the spring, every husband of the blood of Lizar Joseph, though far from the shore of Winyah Bay, should procure a blooming sprig of the bay tree and present it to his wife, saying: "May I present this bay blossom to the blossom of the Bay?" And likewise every wife of that blood, though her husband may not be, may expect from him a like presentation.

ELEANOR JOSEPH (33)

DAUGHTER OF Lizar Joseph and Sarah Judah Joseph, born November 9, 1794 at Black Mingo, an old settlement now disappeared, near Georgetown, S. C. She was the second wife of Israel Solomons whom she married in May, 1814. (For her children, see Israel Solomons). Died February 6, 1856 in Savannah, Ga. Buried in the center of the Solomons family lot in Laurel Grove Cemetery, Savannah, Ga. By her grave stands a large pink and white camellia, said to have been set out shortly after her burial by her daughter, Charlotte Joseph. Her burial was the first in this lot, which was purchased by her sons at that time.

While living in Georgetown, a dying friend, Mrs. Munnerlyn, asked Mrs. Solomons to take charge of her child, Willie, and rear him in the Episcopal Church. This Mrs. Solomons did and the child became virtually a member of the family, living with them until the Civil War, when he died at the residence of Mr. Moses Joseph Solomons, his foster brother, in Savannah, Ga., at the age of about twenty-one. A daguerreotype of Mrs. Solomons in the possession of her great-granddaughter, Miss Nell Wolff of Savannah, Ga., was taken of her and Willie Munnerlyn, who stands by her side holding another daguerreotype which appears to be of an elderly man, probably Israel Solomons. The writer has a copy of this daguerreotype made by Curtis & Cameron of Boston.

RELICS

1. A set of the five books of Moses, inscribed in her name as given by her husband. Now owned by the writer.

2. A copy of a ritual of the services for the Feast of Tabernacles (Succoth) and inscribed with her name as given her by her husband—property of the writer.

3. A patchwork quilt carefully made, the pieces contributed by relatives and friends and inscribed with their names as follows:

4. Letter to Mrs. Solomons from her eldest son, Lizar Joseph Solomons and his wife Perla May 4, 1851. Given the writer by Mrs. Miriam Solomons Wolff of Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1927. The letter describes the first period of his settlement in Savannah after living in Georgetown.

JACOB JUDAH (34)

NOTHING IS known of him except that his name appears as a contributing member on the records of the Congregation Beth Elohim in Charleston, S. C. in 5560 (1800) for offerings made and paid in the services and aggregating 2 £ 8 s. He had a grandson named for him, the son of Lizar Joseph and Sarah Judah Joseph. This grandson married a Miss Emanuel of Georgetown.

The records in Charleston County, Charleston, S. C., show the inventory of his estate as recorded in Book 14-G, page 42 in the records of Administrators, a book which was destroyed during the Civil War.

SARAH JUDITH (35)

WIFE OF Eliezer (Lizar) Joseph. Daughter of Jacob Judah of Charleston, S. C. Born, 1776. Died October 2, 1820 in Georgetown, S. C., forty-four years old, and buried in Georgetown Jewish Cemetery beside her husband.

Inscription on Tombstone:

"The Lord has given and the Lord has taken away
Blessed be the name of the Lord.

in Memory of Sarah
Wife of Lizar Joseph

Who departed this life on Sunday the 8th October
One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty

In the 44th year of her age
She has left a disconsolate husband and
Eight children to mourn her irreparable loss.
She died as she had lived beloved by all who knew her
And blessed be the dead who sleepeth in the Lord."

The Hebrew inscription on the gravestone reads in translation:

The Lord gaveth and the Lord taketh away, may the Lord bless His people.

The tomb of

Sarah, the wife of Eliezer, the son of Joseph Steg of Manheim departed (her life) the first day of the month Heshvan (Five Thousand) Five Hundred and eighty-one, and was buried the following day and the Lord who (remembered Sarah as He had said May the soul of a righteous woman rest in the garden of Eden.)

In 1937, the writer's cousin, Mrs. David Beauregard Falk (Sarah Judith Solomons, "Cissie"), great-granddaughter of Sarah Judith, said: "Aunt Charlotte said that her mother's mother (the mother of Sarah Judith) came from Baltimore, Md." "Aunt Charlotte" was Miss Charlotte Joseph, a daughter of Lizar Joseph and Sarah Judith.

IN THE CIVIL WAR

Participation of this family group in the Civil War is disclosed by epitaphs on mouldering gravestones in the old cemeteries of Atlanta,

To the horrors of war.
Wounded at Kennesaw Mountain, Georgia,
He fills an unknown grave.
We do not mourn his loss
God gave and God has taken away.
Truly the works of God are incomprehensible."

"Our brother
Washington Emanuel
Died August 29, 1864
In the 20th year of his age from wounds received
In battle in front of Atlanta.

His life was his country's, her blood-purchased soil
Was the theme of his hope and the end of his toil.
At the tomb of his rest, in the still hush of even
A tribute to virtue and valor be given."

"In memory of our beloved sons
Isaac Philip, aged 22 years and Mikell Meyers Goldsmith, age 17 years.
Victims in early youth to the horrors of war
They freely gave their young lives to their country's needs.
Filling heroes' graves, they have left us nothing to mourn."

I am looking for info on Daniel ALEXANDER born ca 1765 VA, died Oct 29, 1850 in Pickens Co, SC. He married Mary ???, born ca 1765 VA, died Dec 18, 1851, in SC. They had 8 children: Micajah (5-8-1778 to 12-27-1877) md 1st Elizabeth Lewis, md 2nd Mary (Atkinson) Norris; Sarah (@1785 to after 1860), md William Littleton; Thomas (@1785 in VA to 9-1856 in SC); Margaret (@1790 in VA) md William Hudson; Mary (@1795 in SC) md Tyree Boon; William (@1800 to 1845) md Ann Lewis; Letty (@1800 to @1857) md Jennings Nix (Knix???); Emilia md John Field.

My Alexander line comes down thru Micajah and Elizabeth Lewis Alexander. I have a 1000 page book "Alexander Families of Upper South Carolina" which traces all descendents of this and two other Alexander lines which originated in VA and moved to SC.

Any info on Daniel and Mary appreciated. Thanks! Sherry in MA

W. M. ALEXANDER IS APPOINTED POSTMASTER

Mr. W. M. Alexander, former county superintendent of education of Jackson county, and a leading citizen of Moss Point, has been appointed as postmaster of Moss Point, to succeed Miss Clara Herrin, who has been acting postmaster the past several months. It is understood that Mr. Alexander's appointment does not take effect until October first. In the meantime Mr. Alexander is assisting Miss Herrin, the acting postmaster, in the duties of the office.

Donna-believe your Alexanders lived in N.C. not S.C.
Dr. J.B. Alexander in his history of Mecklenburg Co says that Hezekiah and John McKnitt Alexander were brothers, while Abraham, Adam, CHARLES and Ezra Alexander were their cousins.
If they were full first cousins, and the Joseph Alexander will can be relied upon, those 4 "cousins" are bound to have been the sons of Francis Alexander mentioned in the will.
The term "son in law" applied to Elias Alexander by Joseph in his will, at that day and time (1726) usually, but not always, denominated a "step-son" suggesting that the person named was a son of the wife, but not of the testator, by a former marriage. In regard to this matter, the compiler has reached the conclusion, based entirely upon suggestive condition and the customs which they obtained among these ancient families, that Margaret McKnitt (or McKnight) the 2nd wife of James Alexander, was the Widow, Margaret Alexander, sister of Abigail (the first wife) and daughter of John McKnitt or McKnight, and that there was a son by this first marriage named Elias Alexander (mentioned in Joseph Alex's will in 1726) who was not only a son in law (step son) of Joseph, but who was also a nephew of the testator, Margaret's first husband having been a brother of Joseph, whose name has been lost in antiquity. Thus, Elias Alexander, while not a brother or Francis and James Alexander, was their "double first cousin" and a half brother of their father's children by his 2nd marriage. Elias, therefore, had legitimate claims to a right in the Alexander family circle. That his children came with the other Alexanders to Mecklenburg there is no sort of doubt.

Thus by deduction, following Dr. J.B. Alexander, it would appear that Francis Alexander, brother of James Alexander, was the father of: Abraham, Adam, Charles and Ezra Alexander.
These four were "cousins" of John McKnitt Alexander and Hezekiah Alexander. Every one of these 6 Alexanders were "signers" of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, and if the four named were sons of Francis Alexander, then all 6 of them were grandsons of Joseph Alexander, the Cecil County, Maryland Tanner, who left the will in 1726. According to Dr. J.B. Alexander, also, 1. Abraham Alexander had a son named Elias thought this statement does not agree with Abraham's will.

1. Abraham Alexander lived in Sugar Creek District near the town of Charlotte. According to his tombstone inscription in the Sugar Creek graveyard (No. 2) Abraham Alexander died in

The children of Pleasant Alexander and his wife are also given on the sheet, and including among is a daughter Laura Alexander who married JAMES STEELE. These intermarriages with the STEELE family harks back to the will of John Garner, of Cecil County, Maryland, and abstract of which is shown on page 518 of these notes and suggests that the Elijah of this record certainly belonged somewhere on the family chart of Cecil County Maryland Alexanderw.

Appended however to the record of Elijah Alexander given immediately above is a footnote which says:

"Ancestors of this Elijah Alexander came from Virginia to Mecklenburg County, N.C. and from there moved down to South Carolina."

The information I have just posted was sent to me by another Alexander descendant. This came from xeroxed copy of pages from a book he found at library. If you can, please look for the book "History of Mecklenburg County" believe written by Dr. J.B. Alexander.

I also hope that all of this has not confused you and hope you realize that I only copied what was sent to me—I have no other knowledge about these Alexanders at this time. My line is with another set of Alexanders—that may or may not be related to this one. Still working on that!!!!!! Take care and good luck and hope this helped in some way.... Nancy

Thomasville, April 5, 1893

Dear Hennie,

Since I last wrote you I have become acquainted with some facts which may interest you. The Presbyterian Church here recently became vacant by the removal of our former pastor to Louisville, Ky. We called a Rev'd I.F. Marion of Carolina to fill his place. He accepted our call and moved here recently. I was looking over his library and saw a book of two volumes entitled "History of the Presbyterian Church in South Carolina by Rev'd George Howe, D.D." I borrowed the first volume of the work because my and your ancestors were somewhat concerned in the early introduction of Presbyterianism. I have read the book with great interest because I was somewhat familiar with the names and places referred to therein, and the descendants of the persons who are therein mentioned as pioneers before and during the Revolutionary War.

On page 547 of the first volume of the work you will see a copy of a letter written some forty odd years ago by William Alexander the youngest of the brothers to the Rev'd I.H. Saye descriptive of the history and troubles of Revolutionary times in South Carolina. He (the writer of the letter) was brought up within the bounds of Nazareth and Fairview congregation which was made up almost entirely of Alexanders and Pedens and of course familiar with the personal history of his older brothers and the incidents therein related. The four brothers were named Joseph, John, James and William. He says "my uncles and my brothers one who (John) was Capt. at Kings Mtn, and Joseph was Lieutenant at Cowpens and Kings Mtn." He also says "that his uncles and brothers were in the battle of Cowpens, Kings Mtn, Eutaw, Musgrove's Mill perhaps in others besides some little skirmishes with the Tories. John Alexander was your great grandfather. He died in Lawrenceville, Georgia and was buried in the graveyard at Fairview Church three miles from Lawrenceville. If my memory serves me right there is a granite slab over his grave upon which is an inscription, which gives his name, time, of his birth and death, the last line of which is "The Soldier, Patriot and Christian." It is possible you can find the book I refer to in the library of some Presbyterian preacher in Augusta. If not perhaps you can get it from some South Carolina preacher near you. It was published in 1870 and prepared by order of the Synod of South Carolina by Dr. Howe.

I am now over seventy five years of age, but I remember to have seen in my early life James Alexander who died in Greenville, S.C. and is buried at Fairview Church, Greenville S.C., and heard him recite many of the stirring events that occurred in Revolutionary times. I never saw Joseph and can not therefore say anything about him. Your great grandfather John Alexander I saw and talked with him many times about Revolutionary incidents. Your Great Uncle William Alexander, the youngest of the brothers I visited some forty years ago. He lived and died near Carnesville, in Franklin County, Georgia. It was he who wrote the letter published in the book to which I have referred you. He was quite a boy in Revolutionary times, and could only tell what his brothers did, and what he and his mother suffered and endured from what they told him after the war was over.

Yours truly,

Nancy, I saw your reply to Donna Williams, and couldn't quite figure out how that bunch connected in to her line, but the name John McKnitt Alexander caught my eye because I had just been reading something that contained it - a resource I am using for another name entirely - and thought I would add to what you posted what this contains, on the off chance that someone will connect in to the Alexander family mentioned.

What follows is from A HISTORICAL SKETCH OF PEOPLE, PLACES & HOMES OF BULLOCKS CREEK, SOUTH CAROLINA by Rev. Jerry Lee West, Sharon, SC 1986: CAVEAT - I have found errors in this book!

Reverend [Joseph] Alexander was a native of Pennsylvania, born 1730, the son of Theophilus & Catherine Wallis Alexander. Theophilus is a brother of Hezekiah, John McKnitt, Ezekiel, Amos, Jemima, and Josiah Alexander and is related to other members of the family who settled in Mecklenburg County, NC about 1754.

Joseph was graduated from the College of New Jersey, now called Princeton University, in 1760 and was duly licensed.....headed South to the home of his family to serve as a missionary to the back country of Carolina.....[spent some time with Sugaw Creek, where book says were uncles cousins, etc.] In 1768 he inherited his father's lands in North Carolina.

...Most likely it was at this time [1770] that Rev. Alexander married Martha (Esther) Davis, daughter of Reverend Samuel Davis. Reverend Davis had left Virginia in 1759 to become President of Princeton University one year prior to Joseph's graduation...."

The book goes on to discuss Rev. Alexander's career and his death on July 30, 1809. John McKnitt Alexander apparently received land on Broad River, near Bullock's Creek, SC shortly before Rev. Joseph Alexander went to Bullock's Creek, where he preached for many years. Book mentions also "Captain William Alexander, kinsman of Joseph, a member of Sugaw Creek and one of the "Regulators" was involved in the battle with the Governor's forces. Governor Tryon had ordered powder and other munitions from Charleston to Allamance by way of Charlotte and Salisbury; when the Rocky

Thomasville, Ga., March 7, 1892

Dear Hennie,

I received yours of the 5th inst. this morning and hasten to reply to it as best I can. The facts herein after stated I obtained for the most part directly from your Great Grand father John Alexander who died in Lawrenceville, Ga., and is buried at Fairview, a cemetery about 3 miles from Lawrenceville. For several years previous to his death he was sorely afflicted with asthma so that he could not lie down but had to sit up and sleep in an arm chair and it was my business most of the time to stay with and nurse him. Like most old men he was fond of recounting the scenes and incidents of his youth and middle age and from him I learned the facts herein related. About the middle of the past century a colony of Scotch Irish people emigrated from near Belfast, that is between Belfast and Carrickforbus, to America. The colony consisted of your great grandfather and another named James, a Presbyterian preacher named Williamson and his family of children, also a Welshman from some point in Wales. When the colony arrived they made their way to what used to be called Chester District now Chester County in South Carolina and settled upon a creek called Tiger Creek. Your great grandfather then a grown up young man married the daughter of the Presbyterian preacher Williamson and continued to reside in he neighborhood until the Revolutionary War came on. In the meantime quite a number of Scotch Irish emigrants came to this country and joined the Tiger Creek colony among whom was a family of McCrees and your great grandfather on your grandmother's side married a Miss McCree. His name was William Walker from whom your father was named.

When the Revolutionary War came on there was company organized of these Irish and Scotch Irish people of Tiger Creek and were attached to General Francis Marion's command and were either Irish or Scotch Irish. There is a tradition in the family that at the battle of Kings Mtn your great grandfather John Alexander greatly distinguished himself and was complimented on the field by the commanding General. It is also said that some man by the name of Ramsey about the beginning of the present century wrote a history of the early settlement of South Carolina in which he spoke in such complimentary terms of your great grandparents actions and services in the Revolutionary War that our grandparents determined to name me after my granddad John Alexander and to excite him by allusions to the Tories. After the war was over and a stable government established in the state the legislature passed a law organizing the people into >>>> regular militia companies and battalions intending thereby to have a force ready for any emergency that might arise in the future. The people were more or less apprehensive of some new trouble or rebellion that might break out instigated by the British or the Tories and they were determined to prevent such a calamity should it occur. Accordingly a a major's commission was sent to your great grandfather to organize a battallion of which the Tiger Creek Company or such of them as had survived the horrors of war was to be the nucleus. The battallion was formed and kept ready for service until the danger was passed.

In the meantime your ancestor had been chosen as their representative by the people to represent them in the legislature and they continued him as their representative for several years and after that time he was known as major not captain Alexander..

My father in his lifetime had preserved a great many papers and relics of the past history of the family and when he died they remained in the possession and keeping of my mother. When Shermann reached Atlanta they were boxed up and shipped to Carolina for her kindred there, she intending to follow them immediately, but unfortunately the train containing them was captured and burned at Stone Mountain. To me this was a great misfortune as I had long intended to write out for my own satisfaction and the satisfaction of the family a succinct narrative of the history of the family and the letters he had preserved and memoranda he had made would have been a great help. This is a hastily prepared narrative but I hope it will interest you.

Yours truly,
J.R.Alexander

The book lists Dr. Archibald Alexander in relationship to narrative about the Waddell family... The purchase of land by William B. Hugh Alexander had a mill on Stockton's Creek (there are two other references to this Hugh Alexander). The book makes reference to James Alexander, James G. Alexander, Jane Alexander, Sarah Alexander and Thomas Alexander linking them with several different families and the time periods> vary from the 1700's through part of the 1800's. This particular book is good from the standpoint of sometimes identifying a particular site where a person was located to help a researcher do land/deed searches, or it tells about marriages with some detail either the male or female spouse's family. Another important thing I have found in this book is mention at times of the individual removing to another state and sometimes reference to the exact county. If you are researching Alexander roots in Virginia, this book might be worth reviewing as to the names mentioned. Keep in mind their may only be one line or several sentences on each> individual.

37,154 Trees Counted In Jackson County By Farm Department

Jackson County ranked 45th in the nation in the number of pecan trees during 1954.

The US Department of Agriculture reported today that two other Mississippi counties were among the top 100 counties of the country in number of trees.

They were Lamar, with 45,862 trees, and Harrison, with 44,487. Jackson's total was 37,154.

In number of pounds of pecans harvested, however, Jackson did not rank among the top 100. Lamar was 48th, Harrison 50th.

Pecan trees of all ages on United States farms numbered 7,489,457, with 4,580,818, or 61.2% in 100 leading counties.

Pecans harvested in 1954 amounted to 23,578,225 pounds, with 16,585,654 pounds in the 100 counties which led in number of trees.

Dougherty County, Ga., was the leading county in number of pecan trees, with 228,074—3% of the US total—and was second in pecans harvested with 745,341 pounds.

Mitchell, Ga., was second in number of trees with 184,595, and 10th in quantity harvested with 388,439 pounds.

Mobile County, Ala., third in number of trees with 121,961, was 14th in harvest with 319,816 pounds. Comanche, Tex., ranked fourth in trees with 109,526, and third in harvest with 660,392 pounds.

San Saba, Tex., was fifth in trees with 102,289, and fourth in harvest with 659,912 pounds. Dona Ana, N. M., sixth in number of trees with 101,164 was first in quantity harvested with 2,886,465 pounds.

The top 100 counties in number of pecan trees in 1954 were distributed by states as follows: Texas, 42; Georgia, 22; Oklahoma, 20; Alabama, 7; Louisiana, 4; Mississippi, 3; Florida and New Mexico, 1 each.

W. M. Alexander, Ex-Schoolman, Last Rites Held

William Mathews Alexander, 80, retired Moss Point school superintendent and former postmaster, died Monday evening at the home of his son, Walter, in Springhill, La., where he had been about eight days. He had been in failing health for several months.

A native of Cumberland County, Ky., he came to Moss Point in 1918, when he became associated with the city schools, and served as superintendent until 1928.

He was affectionately called "Prof Alex" by scores of former students. From 1928 until 1932 he served as county superintendent of education and in 1933 became postmaster.

After his retirement during the war years he taught a year in the Escatawpa school. He was a member of the Methodist church and had served as a steward for years and was later made an honorary member of the board of stewards. He was also a former teacher of the men's Bible class.

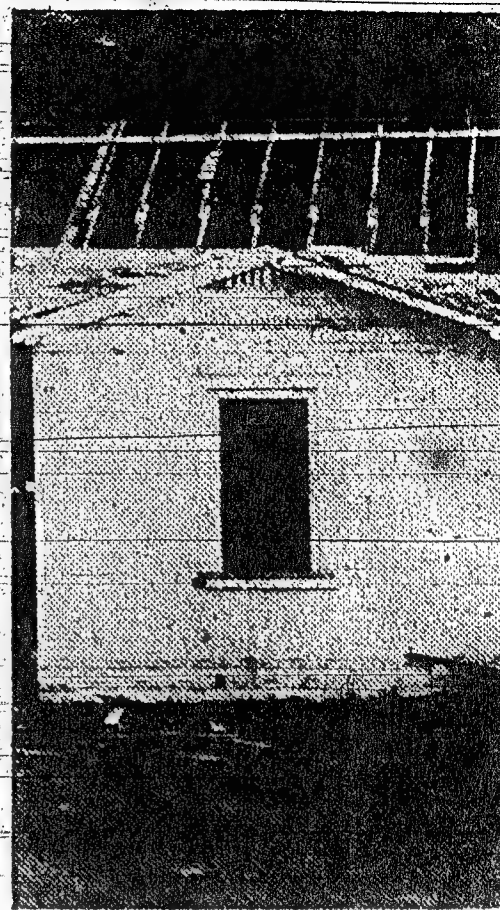

Last June marked the 50th anniversary of his wedding which he observed with his wife, the former Jesse B. Byrd of Kentucky.

Other survivors are his son, William, Jr. of Vicksburg; three brothers, D. R. Alexander of Bonham, Tex., J. E. Alexander of Orange, Tex., and F. E. Alexander of Silver City, N.M. One sister, Mrs. A. Forester of Ferriday, La., and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday from First Methodist Church with Dr. Marion L. Smith, pastor, officiating, assisted by Revs. Walter Bader and W. L. Stagg. Interment was in Mapleah Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Felix W. Ciriot, S. A. McInnis, Jr., Louie Hays, W. F. McLeod, W. B. McDavid and Harold Monroe. Honorary pall-bearers were members of the men's Bible class.

Man Robs, Runs; Charges Dropped After 'Sob' Story

Charges against a man who stole $500 from a Pascagoula service station and led an officer on a 90-mile-an-hour chase were dismissed Wednesday in city court.

Edwin Caffey, operator of the station, withdrew charges when the man's wife told him she would be deported if her husband were sentenced.

She is an alien, a native of Germany, where she met and married her husband, she said.

The man, Airman 1/c Gilbert R. Taylor of Arkansas, drove into Caffey's station about 12:30 p.m. Sunday, left his wife and two children in the car and entered the office while Caffey was filling his tank.

Die Within Two Days

The death of William T. Alexander within two days of the death of his wife, whose death occurred last Saturday night, was the bereavement to a large number of relatives and friends in this section and elsewhere. Mrs. Alexander died Saturday at 8:10 p. m., the funeral being held Sunday afternoon, Rev. W. A. Murray, pastor of the Baptist church at Kreole, conducting the services, interment being in the Union cemetery. Mrs. Alexander had been in ill health for a number of years.

William T. Alexander died on Monday afternoon at 3:30, at the Jackson County Hospital. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, the same pastor conducting the service and burial in the same cemetery as in the case of Mrs. Alexander. Mr. Alexander was a native of Jackson county, as was Mrs. Alexander, and both had lived in Moss Point their entire lives. Mr. Alexander was 69 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander are survived by four children, two sons, Richard Perkins and Lloyd Perkins, of Moss Point; and two daughters, Mrs. Louie Stauter, of Moss Point, and Mrs. Clifton Tillman, of Gulfport; and 12 grandchildren. Mrs. Alexander is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Richards and Mrs. John Logan, of Pascagoula; one brother, David Bosarge, of Pascagoula. Mr. Alexander is survived by one sister, Mrs. Alley Conley, of Vicksburg.

Both were well thought of, having a large circle of friends, who extend their sincere sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Demonstration County Council Plan Year's Work

Program planning and setting of goals to be attained by the demonstration clubs featured the morning session of the Jackson County Council of Home Demonstration clubs held on Friday, October 28 at the Agriculture building.

View of the situation was given by reports on livestock, poultry, gardens and orchards in county and objectives in each classification were set up to be worked for.

Statistics revealed that since the beef stock had suffered reduction of 18 percent, hogs 20 percent, and poultry 10 percent. Members were urged to put their gardens back on the production basis of wartime gardens that a surplus for the needy might be created.

For the coming year the Council hopes to put on a member drive increasing the county by 3 new clubs and 100 per cent paid up membership dues. They intend to strive for a 100 per cent attendance at the county meetings of which there will be ten in the coming year.

The Council also plans to sponsor such projects as 4-H work, a flower show, the Thanksgiving dinner, Cancer control, and two contests, a story telling contest and a kitchen implement contest.

After a luncheon served in the culture building, at the afternoon session the report was read from the nominating committee for officers for the coming year.

The Council voted to accept the committees' recommendations as follows: President, Mrs. Harris of Vancleave, vice-president, Mrs. Edgar Barla of Hattiesburg, and secretary-treasurer, George Douglas of Gautier. Those attending the meeting were Mesdames B. B. and Ed. Barla of Barla, G. B. Hague, George Henderson and Mrs. Cane Delmas of Bayou Casotte, Townsend, Hurley Guillotte, Bert Hamilton, Jules Garlotte, Borries, George Douglas and Rouse of Gautier; Florry Ly-

Susan Jones, and Lloyd S. of Hurley; C. Ray and Gloria Robinson of Big Point; Carter and Hollfield of

Hunters Petition Close Of Season; Reason: No Squirrels

Several hundred Jackson County hunters this week petitioned the State Game and Fish Commission to close the season in the county immediately.

The reason: No squirrels, or so few that the Jackson County Hunting and Fishing Association believes they should be protected.

The association sponsored the petitions and most sportsmen complied with the request.

Distinguished Flying Cross To Kreole Man

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—For "heroism and extraordinary achievement" in aerial flight, Robert L. Alexander, former aviation radioman, second class, USNR, Kreole, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Air Medal. Eighth Naval District headquarters here has announced.

Alexander, who is now in the U. S. Air Force stationed at Ft. Worth, Texas, is a veteran of 12 months' aerial action in the European Theater. The award, the navy announced, was made for achievement in aerial flight while he was serving as an aircrewman in a Naval patrol plane in anti-submarine operations in the Bay of Biscay and the North Atlantic, from Nov. 7, 1943, to May 19, 1944.

Citation for the Distinguished Flying Cross, signed by former Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, said that while completing his 20th mission during this period Alexander contributed materially to the success of his squadron.

Alexander is a graduate of Moss Point High school. He and his wife, Mrs. Emma Alexander of Kreole, have a daughter, Sandra, two.

City Proposes Increase Of 2 Mills In Tax

Pascagoula voters, in addition to casting their ballots in the general election Tuesday, will also vote on a proposed two-mill increase in the city tax levy.

The proposed increased millage is divided into three parts and is as follows:

1. One-half mill for park maintenance and improvement.
2. One-half mill for cemetery maintenance.
3. One mill for garbage collection and disposal purposes.

The proposed increase is divided into three separate propositions on the ballot and voters can affirm or reject all or any one of the three.

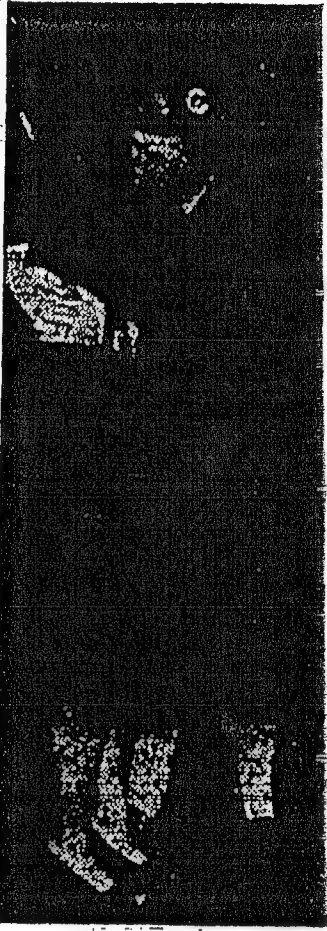

The city election will be held in the usual three precincts, City Hall, South and North Pascagoula. In the two latter precincts the same polling places will be used as in the general election, Fireman's Hall on Washington avenue for South Pascagoula voters and the Knights of Columbus Hall on Magnolia street for North Pascagoula. However, these polling precincts will have separate managers for each election, as well as separate voting booths. City Hall will be the third voting precinct.

Increased Costs

The increased millage is being asked, according to city officials, because of the increased cost of city services and lack of adequate funds to meet these costs.

The cost of handling the city's garbage collection and disposal has consistently exceeded the budget allotted it, and has to be supplemented with funds from other sources. When and if the government-owned housing is

Head-On Crash Kills Pecan Man

9-29-1965

A 37-year-old Pecan community man was killed early today when his car crashed head-on with a truck-trailer rig in a drizzling rain on U. S. 90 about two miles west of the Alabama state line.

Dead on arrival at Singing River Hospital was Julius D. Alexander, an employe of Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp.

James Howell, 40, driver of the Johnson Motor Lines truck was injured when his truck turned over as he attempted to avoid the on-coming car. He was admitted to the hospital for treatment of head injuries.

State Patrolmen Donald Pope and Frank Ely, who investigated, said the truck blocked traffic for almost an hour before it was removed from the road.

A truck from the Pascagoula fire department was called to the scene to wash away gasoline, fuel oil and debris scattered over the highway.

Officials said it appeared that Alexander, traveling east, was in the westbound traffic lane at the time of the collision.

It appeared that the left sides of the vehicles were the point of impact. Skid marks indicated that the right side of the truck had left the road when the collision occurred.

Howell told officers that the car suddenly appeared in his path. He said he attempted to swerve to miss the car and turned over.

Alexander's mother told a coroner's jury that her son had left home a few minutes before the wreck to buy a pack of cigarettes.

The inquest was held at Fails Funeral Home in Moss Point.

Coroner Fred Diamond said the jury ruled that Alexander died of injuries suffered in the accident which occurred about 12:40 a.m.

Jurors were Jimmy Soles, H. A. McLaughlin, Earl Turnage, Clarence Gentry, Willie Chapman, and O. E. Reasoner. Bailiff was Charles Barber.

Assisting in traffic control and other problems created by the blocked highway were Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Palmer and A. S. Massey.

Reverend Schneider Addresses Methodist Brotherhood Tuesday

The Methodist Men's club of the First Methodist church held their regular monthly meeting in the sub-story of the church on South Pascagoula street, Tuesday evening at seven o'clock.

A delightful lunch was served by members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, with Mrs. Charlie Landers in charge.

The Rev. Arthur Schneider, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Pascagoula, was the guest speaker. Mr. Schneider spoke of the close cooperation between the two churches and expressed his appreciation of the many courtesies already shown him although he has only been a resident of Pascagoula for a short time.

Cooper Roberts delighted the audience by playing an album of sacred music on his record player during the luncheon.

Frank Ellis told several humorous stories.

President Crosby stated that he had invited the Rev. Frank E. Dement of Lucedale to be the speaker at the next meeting.

Legend says the first glass manufactured by men was made when ancient Phoenician sailors banked a fire on a sandy beach with blocks of soda.

at the family residence at 907 East Kenneth street, early Tuesday morning. The baby had been sick prior to her death. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Falls Funeral Home in Pascagoula by Dr. L. E. Green and interment was in Machpelah cemetery.

She is survived by her father and mother, the former Eunice Withen; three brothers, Jerry, Terry and Ernest Walker; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Withen and Mrs. P. H. Walker.

Moss Point Veteran Dies At Gulfport Facility Monday

James Robert Alexander of Moss Point died Monday at the Veterans' hospital in Gulfport where he had been under treatment from time to time. He was a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Alexander of Moss Point; two daughters, Mrs. B. L. Sparkman and Miss Ruby Alexander of Moss Point; four sons, Leon of Kreole and Raymond, Austin and Clyde of Moss Point. Funeral arrangements had not been completed pending the arrival of his son who is in the service. Falls Funeral Home of Pascagoula is in charge.

Nina was a Sumerian deity, the name being A with Nin (lady) as a prefix.
